Senate begins stormy battle over reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is starting what promises to be a stormy, drawn-out battle over campaign reform legislation.

The most controversial part of a bill to be brought up for debate today provides for use of tax funds in financing presidential and congressional election campaign.

It is under attack by President Nixon and others as a raid on the treasury for the benefit of politicians.

But supporters of public financing maintain it is the best way to eliminate the influence of big money in politics and are counting on the Watergate scandals to help them win votes.

Other parts of the bill would limit campaign contributions and expenditures, require annual financial disclosure statements by Congress members and all other top government officials, and restrict personal spending by candidates for federal office.

More centralized reporting of campaign financing would be required, tax incentives for small contributions would be doubled, stiff penalties would be provided for diversion of campaign funds to personal use and the equal time requirement for political broadcasts would be repealed.

Still another major feature is the creation of a federal elections commission that could operate independently of the Justice Department in prosecuting violators.

Except for the public financing provisions, the bill is essentially the same as one the Senate passed 82 to 8 last July 30, but on which the House has taken no action.

Former Nixon aides drop challenge

Committee gets secret report

By ROBERT BENJAMIN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House committee which may advise Congress to impeach President Nixon received secret information today from the Watergate grand jury which indicted seven of his closest aides or campaign workers.

Attorneys for two of those indicted, who last week had challenged the transfer of the grand jury report on Nixon's handling of Watergate, let a Monday deadline pass without appealing to the Supreme Court.

Transfer of the report was made at 8:30 a.m. CDT today. Before going to the House Judiciary Committee, which is studying whether grounds exist for impeaching Nixon, the material was held in the safe of U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica.

It was Sirica who on March 18 ordered it forwarded to the committee. Attorneys for H.R. Haldeman and Gordon Strachan failed Thursday to win a stay of Sirica's order from the U.S. Court of Appeals.

The Appeals Court said it agreed with the government—it was "speculative" to worry that the material would be leaked to news media and destroy chances for a fair trial for the Watergate defendants. Besides, the Appeals Court said, any damage done by leaks could be repaired—the men could ask dismissals, petition for changes of venue, and seek other means to protect their rights.

But the grand jury material, it ruled, focused on Nixon's handling of Watergate and should go to the House Judiciary Committee. Nixon's Watergate attorney James D. St. Clair, the court noted, did not oppose the Judiciary committee's right to it.

Other Watergate developments: —Nixon was given four more days—until Friday—to answer Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's subpoena for more Watergate materials. Jaworski said Monday he agreed to the delay so St. Clair could have more time to study the subpoena.

—Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said the White House was not really withholding 42 tapes the Judiciary committee says is crucial to the Watergate investigation. Ziegler said the administration the committee should specify what it wanted to see, and would not tolerate what Nixon has called "fishing expeditions" into confidential presidential files.

—In Los Angeles, Nixon's former chief domestic adviser, John D. Ehrlichman, was ordered to stand trial as scheduled April 15 on perjury charges. He would be the first of Nixon's former top officials to be tried in connection with the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

—John W. Dean III, fired White House counsel, testified in New York City that John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans tried to keep Robert L. Vesco's financial machinations from smearing the White House. Dean said Mitchell had him keep an eye on what to do about possible disclosure of $200,000 Vesco gave Nixon's campaign.

On future

Joint economic committee split

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Congressional Joint Economic Committee is split on party lines over whether the nation faces inflation or recession. The Democrats say recession. The Republicans say inflation.

The conflict was reflected in the committee's annual report, which comments on administrative economic policy and offers suggestions to Congress.

Chairman Wright Patman of Texas, speaking for the Democratic majority, says a $10 billion tax cut is needed to head off a recession.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, speaking for the GOP minority, said a tax cut would aggravate the inflation problem.

Patman said President Nixon's economic policy would "permit the burden of a slowdown in economic activity—including a rise in unemployment—to fall upon low and middle-income families with no effort to maintain employment or to raise the level of benefits paid to those who do become unemployed."

Unless there is quick action, such as a tax cut, Patman said "unemployment is likely to exceed 6 percent throughout the second half of this year."

But Javits disagreed, saying, "We believe fiscal stimulus in the form of a tax cut would be ill-advised and inflationary this year."

The Republicans recommended contingency programs that could be put into effect to live up to the economy only "if there are no signs of an economic upturn, especially in housing and automobiles, by the second quarter of the year."

Land buyers to receive millions in refund money

By BILL NEIKIRK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission today announced a landmark agreement which could reimburse land buyers for more than $17 million the commission estimates was the product of deceptive advertising.

The agreement was negotiated with GAC Corp. and two subsidiaries with one land development project in Arizona and nine in Florida.

The negotiated agreement between the FTC and the Miami-based company requires GAC to provide prominent warning statements in all future sales contracts and to offer refunds to eligible purchasers who default on payments in the Golden Gate Estates, River Ranch Acres and Remuda Ranch Grants subdivisions in Florida.

J. Thomas Rosch, head of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, estimated the refunds could cost GAC more than $17 million.

Future sales contracts used by GAC would contain the statement: "The future value of this land, like all undeveloped real estate, is uncertain." The contract would also grant purchasers the unconditional right to cancel with no penalty within 10 days.

The order would also provide various measures to allow buyers since certain dates to swap useless land they might be holding for more valuable lots.

The government sources said that the commission has probed other large land development companies and plans to crack down on several more firms.

"The shock wave that will go through the industry is going to be enormous," the source said. Although GAC did not admit to violations of the law under the agreement, it has agreed to make restitution in the form of credits of other property to land buyers who can prove they have been wronged, the sources said.

In addition, the firm has agreed not to use the word "investment" in its future advertisements on land and has agreed to permit prospective land buyers a 10-day period in which they can call off the sales contract even after signing it.

Under current government regulations administered by the Housing and Urban Development Department, there is a 48-hour cooling-off period in which land buyers can back out of a sales contract, although this waiting period can be waived in certain circumstances.

The commission has been investigating deceptive advertising techniques in the interstate land sales business. According to sources, the commission usually goes after the biggest target in an industry to obtain a tough order, hoping to make it apply industry wide.

FTC spokesmen would not comment on the case for the record, but a source said the amount of restitution would run into the millions of dollars. He would give no precise total.

A spokesman for the Johnson interests said the arrangement is a bargain for the dairy group, Associated Milk Producers Inc. However, the cooperative's board of directors had tried to end the lease arrangement, which is scheduled to run until April 5, 1976.

The lease arrangement was initiated by the co-op's former general manager, Harold S. Nelson, before he was ousted by the board for mismanagement.

Nelson originally agreed to pay $73,500 per year to lease a smaller, less expensive aircraft from the Texas Broadcasting Co., President Johnson's family corporation. That agreement was signed July 1, 1970, a year and a half after Johnson left office.

Details of the transactions between the milk producers and the Johnson interests are revealed in a report obtained from court records and confirmed independently by The Associated Press.

'Beneath dignity of office'

Albert blasts Nixon remark

By GRANT DILLMAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert says President Nixon's remark that the House Judiciary Committee wants to carry away White House Watergate documents in a U-haul trailer is a "wild defensive maneuver" that is almost beneath the dignity of the presidency.

In one of his bluntest statements yet on efforts to impeach the President for his handling of Watergate, Albert also said he believed Nixon had lost more ground with House members in the last two or three months than he did "through the entire previous eight or nine months."

He made the statement Monday on Straight Talk, a weekly interview produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television and carried by the Public Broadcasting Service.

Asked why he thought Nixon was losing House support, Albert said he believed there is a feeling that the President "has unfairly attacked the Judiciary Committee which is given a job when the committee hasn't really given him any occasion to do this."

"I mean such statements as they might want to take a U-haul and go down to the White House and carry back all the documents they can find . . . It seems to me that that statement by itself is a wild defensive maneuver on the part of the President and almost beneath the dignity of the office of President . . ."

"I'm surprised the President would say a thing like that."

Albert, who would preside if the impeachment issue came to the House floor, said he had reached no personal conclusions as to whether Nixon should be impeached because "I want to preside as speakers always do when they sit in the chair, and that is with absolute impartiality."

Did he agree with Senate Democratic Whip Robert Byrd of West Virginia that Nixon distorted the facts when he said he was cooperating with the Judiciary Committee? "Well, if he's fully cooperating, I haven't been able to find it out."

Soviets stung by successes

Kissinger facing a tough task

By STEPHENS BROENING

MOSCOW (AP) Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev met again today in the Kremlin for their second day of talks.

In addition to Kissinger's advisers on nuclear weapons and European problems, the American delegation included Alfred Atherton, the assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern affairs. This indicated that Kissinger was urging Brezhnev to influence the Syrian government to accept a disengagement agreement with Israel.

The Soviet government announced today that President Hafez Assad of Syria would visit Moscow early next month. Western diplomats said he probably wants to consult with Brezhnev before the start of the disengagement negotiations in Washington.

Stung by Kissinger's success in arranging the Israeli withdrawal from the Suez Canal, the Russians have begun to claim a cardinal role in Middle East peacemaking. The Soviet press is declaring that no permanent settlement can be negotiated without Soviet participation.

This is coupled with press warnings of the dangers of a new war on the Golan Heights if an Israeli withdrawal is not achieved quickly. The newspaper Trud said today that "world public opinion" is "seriously concerned" about the recent intense artillery duels between the Israeli and Syrian forces. It said the Israelis "are playing with fire."

Soviet disenchantment with the new entente between President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and the United States was evidenced in a short Tass dispatch from Beirut published by Pravda, the communist party newspaper.

It said the Lebanese press had published an appeal by a group of prominent Lebanese officials to Sadat calling on him to put an end to attacks on his predecessor, the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

"This appeal was published in connection with the appearance recently of a number of articles aimed at Nasser and the policies he carried out," Tass said.

It was Nasser who aligned Egypt with the Soviet Union and opened the Middle East to Soviet influence in exchange for Soviet arms and Soviet aid in building the Aswan High Dam.

For use of plane hangared at LBJ Ranch

AMPI pays LBJ group $94,000 yearly

By BROOKS JACKSON

WASHINGTON (AP) The nation's largest dairy cooperative, focus of Watergate investigations, pays Lady Bird Johnson's family corporation $94,000 a year for use of an airplane hangared at the LBJ Ranch, The Associated Press has learned.

A spokesman for the Johnson interests said the arrangement is a bargain for the dairy group, Associated Milk Producers Inc. However, the cooperative's board of directors had tried to end the lease arrangement, which is scheduled to run until April 5, 1976.

The lease arrangement was initiated by the co-op's former general manager, Harold S. Nelson, before he was ousted by the board for mismanagement.

Nelson originally agreed to pay $73,500 per year to lease a smaller, less expensive aircraft from the Texas Broadcasting Co., President Johnson's family corporation. That agreement was signed July 1, 1970, a year and a half after Johnson left office.

Details of the transactions between the milk producers and the Johnson interests are revealed in a report obtained from court records and confirmed independently by The Associated Press.

Donald S. Thomas, lawyer for the Johnson corporations, said in a telephone interview that he had negotiated both the original agreement and the present one with Nelson.

Thomas said the present agreement calls for one of the Johnson family corporations, Western Wildflower Corp., to pay for a pilot and hangar space for the $765,000 Beechcraft King Air model 100, a 13-passenger turboprop aircraft.

He said two other Johnson corporations, Karnack Corp. and LBJ Co., also purchase flight time. But he said the milk producers' co-op has first call on the airplane and in practice has had "virtually sole use of the aircraft."

He said that Mrs. Johnson had traveled personally on the aircraft on occasion.

The milk producers pay $10,000 per year for the insurance and other intangible expenses, plus $7,000 per month for a minimum 40 flying hours, at $175 an hour. The dairy cooperative pays another $175 for each flying hour over 40 hours per month, plus fuel and any extra expenses incurred by the pilot.

Thomas said the same aircraft under comparable conditions normally rents for $275 per flying hour.

He said the Johnson family hasn't benefited from the arrangement. "We haven't made money on the proposition. The statement has been made to me by my bookkeeper that it didn't cover the depreciation," he said.

The milk producers' headquarters is in San Antonio, Tex., roughly 50 air miles from the Johnson airstrip.

The cooperative's board originally tried to extricate itself from the airplane deal a few months before the original lease agreement, covering a cheaper version of the airplane model, expired June 30, 1972.

WIELFRATH, Germany (UPI) — Police on Monday revoked an earlier ordinance banning a gathering of Rhineland "streakers" scheduled for next weekend.

"People would only be poking fun at us if we had kept the nudes out of town," said police chief Guenther Nolhinek.

But the chief ruled the nudes may not streak on the streets but only on a soccer field.

HECC approves tuition pact with Wisconsin

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — The Minnesota Higher Education Coordinating Commission (HECC) has approved the renewal of its reciprocal tuition agreement with Wisconsin for the 1974-75 academic year.

Under the agreement, Minnesota residents may attend public institutions in Wisconsin as undergraduate, graduate or professional students on the same conditions of tuition and performance required for Wisconsin students.

Similarly, a Wisconsin student may attend public institutions in Minnesota at prevailing in-state tuition rates.

All public collegiate institutions and public vocational schools are included in the agreement.

Preliminary figures indicate more than 900 Wisconsin students were attending Minnesota institutions in the fall of 1973 and 1,700 Minnesotans were attending Wisconsin institutions under the program during the same period.

Subsequent approval of the agreement in Minnesota is also required by the State Board for Vocational Education, State College Board, State Board for Community Colleges and the University of Minnesota Board of Regents.

The regents recently ratified the agreement.

County state aid road fundings detailed

The Minnesota Highway Department has detailed the amount of state aid funds to be given area counties this year for use on county state aid highways.

The total 1974 allocation for all 87 counties is $67 million. The funds come from motor fuel taxes and motor vehicle registration fees.

Winona County is slated to receive $887,122, Wabasha County $768,599, Houston County $762,441, and Fillmore County $1,157,958.

Of rail studies

Formal action deferred

City councilmen Monday heard from two transportation planning firms with proposals for a railroad relocation study.

Formal action was deferred until the full council meets next Monday.

Councilmen B. Eugene Gough (2nd Ward) and Barry Nelson (3rd, 4th) did not attend the 5 p.m. special session.

Three-man delegations from Barton-Aschman Association Inc., St. Paul, and Alan M. Voorhees & Associates, Chicago, Ill., each proposed multi-phased studies to determine if mainline tracks of the Milwaukee Road could be relocated from the center of town.

For gas, electricity

Interim NSP rates approved

The city council Monday approved interim rate increases of 15 percent for electricity and 6 percent for gas as requested by Northern States Power Co. (NSP).

The resolution doesn't end the months-old rate dispute between Winona councilmen and NSP; it simply delays further confrontation until the newly empowered State Public Service Commission (PSC) can review utility rates next year.

IN THE standoff agreement, Winona agreed to pay the higher utility rates, retroactive to March 19, while NSP is to join with the city in requesting a PSC rate review. Under state legislation passed recently, the commission will assume power to regulate utility rates Jan. 1.

If the PSC determines the NSP rates are too high, NSP will return the difference with interest to Winona customers as a credit on future billing.

The resolution also provides that if the PSC refuses to review rates, the city and NSP may resort to arbitration, negotiation or court review according to provisions in the city charter.

Thomas Jepson, manager of NSP's Hiawatha Division, said this morning that he thinks his company will go along with the city resolution. NSP offered a resolution proposal which varied somewhat from the city's version.

COUNCILMEN hope that with the compromise agreement, Winona can get a rate review more cheaply than without PSC help.

While the council wants to see lower utility rates for Winona, it doesn't want those savings eaten up by municipal costs in fighting NSP.

City Attorney George Robertson Jr. sees nothing in new state legislation that would require the PSC to review Winona's rates by a certain time, he warned. The PSC also is unlikely to rule on the validity of 1974 rates when its power doesn't take effect before 1975, he added.

Councilmen, however, seem to feel the wait is worth the gamble. Basically, the council objects to the company's structure, rather than the state-wide increases per se. Under that structure, Winona and out-state communities are charged more than metropolitan customers.

City Council

For Knopp Valley

Council OK's rezoning

Rezoning for 280 acres of Knopp Valley got final city council approval Monday, with a special amendment to guarantee that no multi-family residences are built in the 18-acre tract zoned for business.

Most of the huge residential and commercial development proposed by Jerry Papenfuss and Howard Keller was rezoned from R-1 (single-family residential) to R-3, (multi-family residential), R-2 (residential - suburban) or B-1 — except for a 25-foot strip of land bordering most of the business district at the valley's east end.

Without rezoning, the strip remains R-1 and limits future residential development in the B-1 district to single-family homes.

Developers want to establish a business-office complex in the district, but might turn to residential building if the business park can't draw tenants. Keller-Papenfuss had no objection to the special zoning, according to Planning Director Charles Dillerud.

The council rejected an earlier suggestion to amend zoning ordinances and prohibit all multi-family residential development in B-1 districts.

The special zoning would have the same effect for Knopp Valley, without creating zoning troubles in other business districts, Dillerud said.

Councilmen made the move after Joseph Knopp, Highway 14, said he didn't want to see apartments behind his yard in land zoned for business development.

New zones in the valley include about 160 acres of R-3, 100 acres of wooded slope zoned R-S, and the 18 acres of B-1. Land zoned R-S will be rezoned conservancy once the city creates such a zone, according to an agreement with developers.

Developers plan more than 650 units of housing, built in "mini-neighborhood" clusters over the next decade.

Missouri Synod battle

Conciliatory gestures rebuffed by students

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The placement of 124 students for the ministry in congregations may be jeopardized by the students' resolution approved Monday, according to a spokesman for the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

The students' "rebuffed conciliatory gestures," made by the synod's Council of Presidents, Victor W. Bryant said Monday night.

The council passed resolutions stating that the synod's Board for Higher Education would be in charge of supervising the vicars which would be placed this summer.

Students are eligible to be placed as vicars after two years of seminary studies. Seminary students in the St. Louis area had their education interrupted this winter by a dispute over doctrinal interpretation. Most of the students abandoned the Concordia Seminary and initiated a so-called "Seminary in Exile," at two St.

Louis area theological schools.

The students issued a resolution Monday saying they would be supervised by Semine (Seminary in Exile) officials.

"We realized that some district presidents are working very hard to place us and we don't mean to offend them by a harsh statement coming off as very unyielding," said Michael R. Lohmann, leader of the second-year class and vice president of the exiled seminarian student body.

Council officials issued a statement asking the students to reconsider.

The exiled seminary was formed last month by 42 faculty members fired from Concordia. It has an enrollment of 385 students who walked off the Concordia campus after the teachers were dismissed.

The students and teachers had staged a moratorium on classes after the Jan. 22 suspension of Dr. John Tietjen, a seminary president. He was accused of permitting false doctrine to be taught at the seminary.

Evidence in an implied consent hearing in Winona County Court Monday was taken under advisement by Judge Dennis A. Challen after John Seaburg, 27, Cottage Grove, Minn., took the stand on his own behalf.

Seaburg stood trial Dec. 20 on a charge of drunk driving and Challen then took trial evidence under advisement, returning a decision of guilty on Jan. 25. He imposed a fine of $300 at that time, reducing it to $175 if Seaburg would participate in an alcohol education course.

Seaburg was arrested Nov. 10 at about 1 a.m. by city police on West 3rd Street between Winona and Huff streets.

Testimony Monday came from Police Capt. Joseph Kryzer, patrolmen William Tenseth and Carl Bambenek, and Seaburg. Seaburg claimed that he struck his head earlier in the evening of his arrest and could not remember being arrested or talking to police officers. Police said that Seaburg refused to consent to blood or urine tests at the time of arrest. Under Minnesota law, refusal to submit to such tests can result in loss of driving privileges for up to six months.

Joel Watne, special assistant attorney general, represented the state. Seaburg appeared without an attorney.

Council officials issued a statement asking the students

CMH personnel attend meeting

Health Maintenance Organizations, health planning and economic controls on the health care industry were discussed at a meeting of the Minnesota Institute for Health Administrators attended by Earl W. Haggberg, administrator, and Roger L. Metz, assistant administrator of Community Memorial Hospital, and its Convalescent and Rehabilitation Unit.

About 200 Upper Midwest hospital administrators attended the institute, an annual educational program sponsored by the University of Minnesota's division of continuing education and extension and the Minnesota Hospital Association.

The final day of the three-day program was devoted to relationship between the hospital administrator and the hospital governing board.

The session was attended by J. L. Jeremiasen, president of the Winona General Hospital Association, and Keith Schwab, a member of the association's board of directors.

SEMAPO to meet about funding

WABASHA, Minn. — The Southeastern Minnesota Area-wide Planning Organization (SEMAPO) Wednesday night will discuss the receipt of funds it was worried a month ago it might not get.

SEMAPO board members in February discussed the organization's financial plight following the withdrawal of three member governments, but has since received planning funds it hadn't expected.

The additional federal fund allocation was announced a week after the group's Feb. 27 meeting and the board's Wednesday agenda calls for an optimistic report on a March 7 meeting with State Planning Agency officials.

SEMAPO staff members are also seeking Minnesota Pollution Control Agency funds to plan a recycling program for the five Mississippi River-oriented counties belonging to SEMAPO.

The organization's policy board meets at 8 p.m. Wednesday in SEMAPO offices in Wabasha.

Canton youth's case goes to adult court

PRESTON, Minn. — Leslie Wangen, 17, Canton, was transferred to adult court Monday on a charge of felony theft.

Fillmore County Court Judge George Murray reduced the charge to misdemeanor theft.

Wangen had been charged with taking guns, a tape player and tapes from a car Jan. 21 at Prosper, Minn. He was arrested March 15 by Fillmore County authorities.

On Wangen's guilty plea, Judge Murray fined him $100 and ordered him to make restitution of $25 to Charles Emery, Prosper, owner of the stolen articles. The court further ruled that a 60-day jail sentence would be suspended on the condition that Wangen make restitution and pay the fine.

Three defendants were sentenced after pleading guilty to damaging tractors owned by Avitus McCabe, Harmony Township.

They were: Gale Gulbranson, 23, Lanesboro; Dwayne Kumpf, 21, Dorchester, Iowa; and George E. Kumpf, 17, Dorchester, who was transferred to adult court.

Each defendant was fined $150 and given 60-day jail sentences. The sentences were to be suspended on the condition that each man pay the fine and make restitution of $175 to McCabe for damage to the tractors.

Part of Highway 60 to get resurfaced

WABASHA, Minn. — The Minnesota Highway Department has scheduled reconstruction of a portion of highway 60 here. The work will include grading, bituminous surfacing and installation of lighting between Hiawatha Drive and Second Street in Wabasha.

Construction is expected to begin May 13 and be completed within 65 working days.

A day for all seasons

Whatever your favorite season, you've probably had a chance to enjoy it at least once in the last day or two. For a few minutes.

Monday was the sort of day you shovel snow in the morning and play tennis — in shorts — in the afternoon and today started out like an instant replay after passing the city through fall and winter overnight.

And, just in case you took a nap and slept through a season or two, Wednesday

'Energy gardens' progress report to be presented

Park-Recreation Department Director Robert Welch will report on progress for Winona's "energy gardens" at tonight's meeting of the Port Authority.

Authority-owned land east of the temporary flood dikes near Highway 61 will be divided into 40-foot square garden lots to help residents save on food and fuel bills. But the park department can't accept applications for the plots until plowing is completed, warned Welch. Snow and ground frost have delayed that work.

The authority is to meet at 5 p.m. in city hall.

Two positions open on Mabel-Canton board

MABEL, Minn. (Special) — Filings for two positions on the board of education of Independent School District 238 may be made with the clerk, Kenneth C. Herzog, or at the Mabel School office between April 6 and April 30. The election will be held May 21.

The terms of Kenneth Turner and Duane Boyum are expiring.

should produce more of the same kind of fickle spring weather that makes people in other states wonder why Minnesota is inhabited.

But take heart: spring, which arrived with a sub-zero cold wave last week, should take the upper hand again in a few days. Highs in the 50s are seen toward the weekend.

Monday's 2 1/2-inch pre-dawn snowfall had no sooner disappeared under 46-degree sunshine than a stiff breeze brought in October-like clouds and snow began falling again after dark.

The city officially recorded two inches of white stuff overnight, which yielded 16 of an inch of precipitation. Monday's balmy 46 was, incidentally, nowhere near the record 74 logged in 1910 but squarely hit what is supposed to be normal this time of year. This morning's low was 18.

Monday morning's low, incidentally, was also 18, not 7 below as reported Monday. That 7 below mark was reached Sunday morning and shattered a record.

Tonight's low should be in the low 20s, with the mercury nearing 40 Wednesday under cloudy skies and the likelihood of snow or rain or both.

While the forecast indicates spring might tighten its grip Thursday and Friday, don't get the idea winter's given up: last year we had 16.5 inches of snow in April, including 12 inches April 9-10 and 2 1/2 inches as late as April 16.

If you gain comfort from the misery of others, not that Little Valley, N.Y., had 7 below this morning, Panama City, Fla., had almost two inches of rain in six hours, and Norfolk, Va. — yes, Virginia — had 7 inches of snow Monday.

the county's structure that might give any power to an appointed official.

Decision-making must be done by officials controlled by the voters, Ploetz said, calling it the "paramount question of our democratic form of government."

"Appointed officials," he said, "would take away the power of our elected officials."

With appointed officials authorized under the County Options Law, Ploetz argued, "the board would be almost helpless to decide county affairs."

"It shouldn't be a basic law to bypass our elected officials," he said, praising elected county department heads as "a good, dedicated group of people" who "have a good working relationship with the board."

Ploetz quoted State Sen. Roger Laufenburger (DFL-Lewiston) as telling him, "Where we have a good set of county commissioners like we do in Winona County, we don't need an administrator to help them."

Saying he's "confident" the county's five commissioners can handle county affairs without administrative help, Ploetz said creation of a managerial level in county government brings with it a danger "we will lose the right to govern from the ground up."

SCHRIEVER was assistant county manager in Forsyth County, N.C., a county of about 250,000 people that includes Winston-Salem.

"There are any number of people in America who are contending with the same problems you are," he told the commission in describing the growing national trend toward administrative or managerial forms of county government.

Frequent discussions at the managerial level between Forsyth County and Winston-Salem led to much inter-governmental cooperation, eliminating much duplication of services and providing "maximum utilization of the taxpayer's dollar," he said.

He said the manager's office in that county had no trouble working with elected department heads, even though the manager had hiring authority over all other employees in those departments.

"We never forgot they were elected by the people," Schriever said, and the department heads knew the manager's office could show them how to run their offices more smoothly.

Forsyth County's five commissioners met weekly and were paid $100 per month, Schriever said, but said the manager's staff did much of the board's homework so "when that county board sat down to vote, they knew exactly what they were doing."

"THE POPULATION of this county would not be out of line with a full-time manager," he told the commission, noting a number of areas of possible cooperation the city and county are now exploring: "If we had had an administrator, we might have gotten together sooner."

The city manager described purchasing as a "major area of cost reduction," adding "I save my salary through purchase savings."

Schriever suggested making elected county offices appointive, an option permitted under the law. "You should measure a man on his qualifications," he said, "not on how many votes he gets."

Eleva water rate hike OKed

ELEVA, Wis. — The Village of Eleva last week received authority from the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin to raise water rates about 50 percent.
The increase will permit the utility, now running in the red, to get a 5.5 percent rate of return on the water utility rate base, according to PSC findings of fact.
Eleva has been operating under water rates established 20 years ago because the village did not take an authorized rate increase in 1963.
The increase will raise water revenues $4,122, to $12,350. About $3,000 of the new revenue will come from general service, with the remainder from public fire protection service.

Legislators facing old bugaboo

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Legislature, which had once announced plans to quit Monday, may be lucky to wind up its session by the end of this week.

Despite the new flexible session format, lawmakers are facing an old bugaboo—they are running out of time. The 120 days allowed by the constitution expires April 3.

House and Senate haggling over last-minute tax issues continued Monday. The House agreed Monday night to have a conference committee look at various tax proposals, including a repeal of the yellow margarine tax and the so-called "working poor" bill.

That plan, a pet project of Senate DFL Leader Nicholas Coleman, would cancel state income taxes for wage earners who take home salaries equivalent to welfare payments. Under his plan, for example, a family of six could earn $6,400 without paying state taxes.

Coleman called it "an encouraging sign" that House DFL leaders had agreed to a conference committee on the tax question.

But the Senate tactics were a continuing irritant to the House. Rep. Ray Pavlak, DFL-South St. Paul, proposed a bill creating the crime of "second degree kidnapping" where bills are held hostage by the Senate.

The Senate has delayed action on some key bills as a way of pressuring the House to consider tax questions.

The Senate added a new element Monday, passing a $150 million bonding program for highways and mass transit. The bill also would boost the state gasoline tax by a penny to eight cents a gallon and impose a new 1 percent sales tax on new and used cars.

The bill passed the Senate 52-11, with sponsors saying it combines borrowed funds and a pay-as-you-go approach.

Transportation bond plans had been defeated twice in the Senate, but the new package attracted a strong coalition of both urban and rural votes.

The plan would earmark $90 million for highways and $60 million for grants to mass transit systems.

The two new taxes would take effect July 1 and would be used to pay off the bonds.

However, there was no immediate House response to the plan and there appeared some doubt it would be accepted. The proposed transfer tax amounts to raising the sales tax from 4 to 5 percent on motor vehicles. On a $4,000 car, the 1 percent tax would cost the purchaser $40. An average driver would pay about $15 more a year as the result of adding one cent to the fuel tax.

In other legislative action, the House handed Gov. Wendell Anderson his $6 million mass transit bill on a 91-34 vote.

The bill allocates $4.5 million in state funds to the Metropolitan Transit Commission (MTC) for expanded bus service in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. It earmarks $1 million to fund up to two-thirds of the operating deficits of public transportation systems in outstate cities. The remaining $500,000 would go to experimental projects.

Also sent to the governor for his signature, on a 127-3 House vote, was a bill which protects workers, pensions in private industry if a company terminates a pension program.

If a program is terminated, workers with 10 years seniority would have their pensions automatically vested.

Most of jury still to be chosen in Boyle murder trial

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI) — The murder trial of W. A. "Tony" Boyle, former president of the United Mine Workers, continues today with 10 regular and two alternate jurors yet to be chosen to hear evidence in the 1969 slaying of Joseph A. Yablonski, a union rival.

Two jurors were seated Monday in the first day of the trial of Boyle, who is charged with the Dec. 31, 1969 slayings of "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter in their Clarksburg, Pa. home.

Eight persons already have been convicted or confessed to the Yablonski murders.

Boyle, 72, last year began serving a three-year term in a federal prison hospital at Springfield, Mo., for illegally contributing union funds to political campaigns.

Boyle is accused of authorizing payments of $20,000 in union money to hired killers who shot the Yablonskis as they slept. The slayings occurred three weeks after Yablonski lost an election bid against Boyle for the UMW presidency.

During the questioning of 11 prospective jurors Monday, special prosecutor Richard A. Sprague asked several if they would consider "the arranger" of murders to be "just as guilty as the triggerman."

One of the standard questions from defense attorney Charles F. Moses was whether they had any "prejudices for or against labor unions or labor leaders."

In statements to the panel before the questioning, both attorneys indicated the jury would be sequestered for the duration of the trial, perhaps about four weeks.

The first juror selected was Carl J. Christiansen of Ridley Township, a union member and a maintenance mechanic at a shipbuilding firm in nearby Chester. The second was Mrs. Suzanne Connors, a Havertown housewife and mother with eight children ranging in age from six to 19.

Coal-gas test kicks off meet

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois Gov. Daniel Walker took a car for a spin in downtown Chicago using gasoline refined from coal. He said the fuel process is a partial answer to the energy crisis.

"No stall, no sputter, no ping," Walker said after the drive with the experimental fuel Monday.

"If we are to solve the energy problem, working toward a self-sufficient nation; if we are to protect our air, keeping it safe, then we will have to develop the technology and build plants to convert coal to oil and natural gas and gasoline," he said.

Bid openings on bonds for school at Lake City set

LAKE CITY, Minn. — Bids on $2.5 million in bonds to finance construction of a new elementary school building and improvements and remodeling of Lincoln and Jefferson School buildings will be opened at 5 p.m. April 10 by the Lake City Board of Education.

The bonds will be dated May 1, 1974; maturity date will be Feb. 1 of each year.

Plans for the construction are progressing satisfactorily and contracts may be awarded by the end of May, according to architect Urban Abendroth of the Minneapolis firm of Matson, Weigeltner and Abendroth.

Bids for a nine-passenger van - type vehicle, chain link fencing material and covering for tennis courts will be opened April 10.

The bonding consultant indicated the first-year tax levy would be over 20 mills but in the board also authorized hiring some of that.

The board also authorized hiring one additional high school teacher and a half-day kindergarten teacher. High school enrollment is expected to be up 40 students next year.

Emery Zillgitt current agent for school insurance which expires July 1, said proposals for an insurance policy should be prepared for bidding 60 days prior to July 1.

The board approved participation in the Hiawatha Valley Special Education Cooperative. A notice of claim from Charles Sprick, who was injured in a trampoline accident at the school Jan. 30, asserting that the school is legally liable to compensate him for the injury, was accepted.

The board accepted low bids of about $38,000 on school supplies, including band instruments and science supplies.

said. The gasoline Walker used cost $266 a gallon to produce and his brief spin in heavy traffic used about $66 worth.

It was 92 octane—the equivalent of premium gasoline.

The demonstration kicked off a conference on developing Illinois' estimated 148 billion tons of unmined coal.

The governor said he learned recently that gasoline could be derived from coal, so he ordered 15 gallons for demonstrations.

Oil officials estimated that it would take 7 to 10 years to build a refinery in Illinois that would produce 100,000 barrels of fuel a day from coal. They said a potential 120 gallons of gasoline could be refined from one ton of coal.

They estimated the cost of setting up such a project would be about $500 million, with a gallon of coal-gasoline selling for about 70 cents.

"That might look pretty cheap 10 years from now," said Ted Tom of the Amoco Oil Co. laboratory in Whiting, Ind.

Experimental processes on a very limited scale were why Walker's 15 gallons of gasoline cost about $4,000 to produce.

The southern Illinois coal was processed into crude oil at Hydrocarbon Research at Trenton, N.J. The gasoline was refined at Amoco's Whiting lab with small scale processing equipment.

Walker said he believes it was the first time a passenger car has been run in the United States on gasoline derived from coal.

Argument over drive brings shooting death

HOUSTON (UPI) — R.V. Winfrey, 40, and Sidney Phillips, 55, were unable to resolve an argument over a blocked gas station drive. So they drew their pistols and shot it out.

Phillips told police Winfrey's car blocked his auto and he refused to move it. Both went for their guns and Winfrey was shot to death.

Police said they would send the case to a grand jury.

Isolation of cancer virus seen in year

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Within a year, scientists should isolate one or two viruses that they can prove cause human cancers, a prominent specialist predicts.

If this comes about, it could open the door to vaccinating people against those specific cancers, much like a polio vaccination.

Or it could provide a means through which doctors could tell if the cancer virus and disease were still present and active, or whether curative treatments were being effective.

The prediction comes from Dr. Sol Spiegelman, director of the Institute of Cancer Research at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York City.

His own work points strongly to evidence that viruses cause human cancer.

Viruses are known to cause cancers in chickens and other animals.

Spiegelman said he knows of two groups of researchers whose work he thinks will, within the year, demonstrate that a virus can cause human cancer. One involves a cancer of the breast and the other a cancer of bone, he said.

Speaking on Monday to a seminar for science writers sponsored by the American Cancer Society, Spiegelman declined to identify the two groups of researchers. He said neither is his own, which has come close to such proof.

If viruses should be shown to cause human cancers, it definitely does not mean that a person with cancer is infectious to other people, Spiegelman and others emphasized.

Bowler having heart attack rolls 300 game

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — John Kriek felt pains in his chest, but Monday was his bowling night and he decided to bowl one game. He was taken to a hospital suffering a heart attack—but not before he rolled a perfect 300 game.

Kriek, a 53-year-old architectural draftsman who lives in suburban Loudonville, was hospitalized after suffering the heart attack. A spokesman at the Albany Medical Center Hospital says he is in "critical" condition.

Walter Decher, secretary of the bowling league, said Kriek "looked so calm outside, but he was suffering inside. He told me the pain was distracting him, and, as it progressed, he noticed less and less about the game—he just wanted to get it over with."

Malaysia officials arrest man who cheated women

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — The arrest was announced today of a 29-year-old man accused of seducing and cheating 100 women over the past two years.

Police said about $2,000 worth of jewelry the man obtained as love tokens from his victims was recovered from pawn shops.

The man, unidentified but described as good looking and dubbed by police as a "Casanova", promised marriage to each of the 100 women he seduced, police said.

Senate to debate probate reforms

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Senate was expected to debate the Uniform Probate Code (UPC) bill today, following passage in the House after a three-hour debate.

The measure, aimed at speeding up and simplifying the process for handling estates and reducing costs to the heirs, was approved on a 101-23 vote in the House Monday night.

Chief House sponsor, Rep. John Lindstrom, DFL-Willmar, said the present probate system "is a very complex, detailed system that sometimes takes a long time . . . it's been expensive."

"The demand for probate reform is here," he told the House. "The people want it."

In addition to forbidding attorneys and an estate's "personal representative" from charging a percentage fee for handling an estate, the measure permits nonlawyers to settle any estate without court supervision—if none of the heirs object.

Most of the provisions of the UPC do not take effect until Aug. 1, 1975.

"The bill is a departure from the proceeding we have now that everything must be supervised by the court," said Rep. Neil Haugherud, DFL-Preston. He has been a champion of probate reform since 1968.

Much of the debate revolved around whether lawyers were trying to obstruct passage of the bill.

"You're treating a noble profession and a noble court like dirt," said Rep. Salisbury Adams, R-Groton. "You don't ram it down people's throats this way."

Another attorney, Rep. Richard Parish, DFL-Golden Valley, said the bill was being pushed by large law firms and two big banking chains and would eventually cost the public more than the present system.

Rep. Arlan Stangeland, R-Barnesville, said lawyers were dragging their feet on probate reform and this has created "mistrust" by the public. "Your public image is poor," he told the lawyers.

Rep. Ray Faricy, DFL-St. Paul, and Ray Kempe, DFL-West St. Paul, were among the lawyers to speak in favor of the bill.

Only seven of the 26 lawyers in the House voted against final passage.

Nonresident fee for fishing said to irk tourists

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — The president of the Wisconsin Association of Campgrounds said Saturday there is still resentment by tourists over the increased nonresident fishing licenses in Wisconsin.

Joe Waters told the group's annual convention at Green Bay Saturday that the higher fishing fee would reduce the numbers of state tourists coming into Wisconsin.

He said licenses for nonresidents in Minnesota or Michigan are $3 while the fee is $12.50 in Wisconsin.

"It doesn't take much to figure out that vacationers will travel through Wisconsin to Michigan, or take the I-system to Minnesota," Waters said.

The short-term license fees, 4 days for $5.50 and 15 days for $7.50, will help, Waters said, "but in the back of their minds is that $12.50 for the season."

SSI-Alert extension request OK'ed
A two-weeks extension request by Project SSI-Alert made by Donald V. Gray, project director for Winona, Wabasha and Houston counties, will be granted, Paul E. Villanue, state director of SSI-Alert on the Governor's Council on Aging told consortium members last week.
The state-wide Red Cross project was originally funded through April 20. At the present time, the work is complete in 85 percent of Winona County, 65 percent of Houston County and 25 percent of Wabasha County, with 161 referrals made to Social Security.
The extension of time would allow volunteers to change the disparity in percentages.
According to Villanue, there are presently 1,076 trained volunteers throughout the state seeking to find low-income elderly and disabled and blind persons eligible for the supplementary security benefits.
Several of the areas have requested time extensions, he said. He stressed the fact that there "would be no cutoff on eligibility, even if the SSI-Alert cuts off. It is an on-going program for people that will go on a continuing basis," he said.
There are no retroactive payments. They will begin the same month the eligible person is enrolled.

The legacy of FDR, WPA, PWA CCC, NRA & NLRB

Futuristic writers of the George Orwell genre occasionally run on about how we're all losing our identities and will soon become only numbers.

They missed the boat — everything is really turning into letters.

The trend hasn't reached human identification yet, but almost every organization imaginable has lost its name and become an acronym.

A government or a planning agency such as SRDC, SEMAPO or ROCOG, for example, can go through the SPA to get LAWCON funds from HUD, and other funds for other uses can be obtained from the likes of the SBA, the FHA and, of course, Minnesota's own OLUA.

If you don't know what all that alphabet soup means, don't ask us. You could ask a planner, who probably won't know either but can tell you about 701 funds, which is probably the only number still around and likely deserving of an HPA grant as an historic monument to the dying age of numbers.

The grand champion garble of all, of course, remains those happy quartets in striped suits that belong to the SPEBSQSA.

There are still a few real words around, however, and we shouldn't worry too much about the golden age of acronyms until you get your paper some night and the name on page one says you're reading the WD & SN. — S.P.J.

Better not to have it

Forbes magazine — a business-oriented publication — last week examined the investment possibilities of 3-month and one-year CDs, 6-month Treasury bills, tax-exempt municipal bonds, passbook savings, long-term Treasury bonds, stocks, utility stocks, gold mining stocks, gold and silver coins, art and antiques, real estate, and sundry other opportunities for savings and concluded that, no matter what, the average capitalist will have a net loss after inflation (8.8 percent last year) and taxes. Not only do you fail to make money, you lose what you got.

Obviously the appropriate solution is not to have any money to invest, or maybe just enough to buy food stamps, which is still the best buy at the market. — A.B.

The motorcycles are preparing to rev' up again

The 1974 motorcycle season is about to open. That means more motorcycles, more motorcycle accidents and more motorcycle injuries and deaths.

This is no vendetta against the motorcycle; it is a simple recitation of facts.

The number of motorcycle registrations in Minnesota has increased 330 percent in a decade; last year the increase was 15 percent. The Department of Public Safety anticipates the trend to continue.

Last year there were four times as many fatal motorcycle accidents as 10 years ago. At that time motorcycle accidents accounted for 2.3 percent of all fatalities; last year, 7.3 percent.

Not only that, the severity rate of the accidents has increased. A decade ago 1.6 in 100 motorcycle accidents were fatal; last year, 2.7.

Some of the young dead were probably riding borrowed machines, and what that suggests is they were unlicensed and that they might not have had any training in driving a motorcycle. Minnesota law requires motorcyclists to have a driver license and pass special tests before qualifying to drive a motorcycle. The law also requires special training for drivers under 18 — for the regular motorcycle and for the mini. One of the drivers, by the way, was 7; one 11, two 13 and four 16.

Now those statistics of motorcycle accidents represent bad news. There's worse.

It is this: the public safety commissioner says that alcohol was definitely a factor in nearly half of the 63 motorcycle deaths in Minnesota last year; 31 had been drinking, 22 were drunk. Of the 29 victims under 21, seven had been drinking.

Was the legislature really well advised to lower the minimum drinking age to 18? Or was it only legalizing the reality?

Legal or not, the alcohol additive to a motorcyclist is a dangerous one, as is the motorcycle itself — in untrained, immature and irresponsible hands. — A.B.

Nixon's try for absolute power failing in House

By ANTHONY LEWIS

BOSTON — When the broadcasters in Houston asked President Nixon about his attitude toward the impeachment inquiry, he answered with many words and much emotion. But he was really putting two very simple propositions:

1. He, Nixon, will define what are impeachable offenses under the Constitution.

2. He will give the House Judiciary Committee only such evidence as he, Nixon, decides is relevant to impeachable offenses listed by the committee.

"I am suggesting that the House follow the Constitution," he said. "If they do, I will." His meaning could hardly have been plainer. The Constitution is what he says it is. In seeking information for impeachment, Congress must follow his rules.

THAT HAS been Nixon's attitude toward all phases of the Watergate investigation. It is exactly a year now since the cover-up began to unravel. In that time he has consistently and determinedly fought against disclosure of the facts. He has treated questions of evidence as questions of his power.

When the Senate Watergate committee wanted to ask questions, Nixon tried to keep all present and former members of the White House staff from testifying, abandoning that position only when the heat became too intense. He declined to answer questions himself and blocked the committee's request for tapes and other evidence.

When the grand jury sought the tapes, Nixon and his lawyers first claimed that he was not even subject to legal process. Then they argued that he had an absolute right to withhold any evidence that he, Nixon, decided was privileged.

It might be a little unpersuasive to make the same assertions of absolute power so boldly against the impeachment process. So Nixon is trying to obscure his strategy now behind a smokescreen of fantasies about history and about his own production of evidence.

"I AM following the precedent that every president . . . since the time of Washington has followed," Nixon said when asked about supplying impeachment evidence. That was fantasy indeed. There is no precedent, and no basis in the Constitution, for withholding information from an impeachment inquiry. Five American presidents, beginning with George Washington, have said that they would be obliged to disclose what Congress requested for impeachment purposes.

Washington was asked by a House Resolution in 1796 for papers relating to the Jay treaty. He declined to turn them over, saying that treaties were the business of the Senate — to which he had already given the documents. He said they were not "relative to any purpose of the House . . . except that of impeachment: which the resolution has not expressed."

At the same time Nixon claims publicly that he has cooperated lavishly and "voluntarily" with the House committee and the special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski. This is a brazen untruth.

Jaworski has been turned down on requests for more than 27 tapes relating to specific criminal offenses, many of them touching on critical episodes. Among the matters involved are the Watergate cover-up itself, the activities of the White House plumbers, the sale of ambassadorships and the dairy campaign fund.

In fact, Nixon has given Jaworski relatively little of value except for the tapes and documents produced under the pressure of public outrage last fall. Similarly with the House committee: It got the material turned over to Jaworski only because Nixon and his lawyers saw no effective way to resist that.

Finally, among these fantasies being propagated, there is Nixon's claim that the House Judiciary Committee wants "to go through all of the files of the presidency," as he put it to the broadcasters — "bring your U-haul trailer and haul it all out." To the contrary, the committee has been limited and precise in requesting 42 specific tapes around the crucial cover-up period a year ago.

THE misrepresentations of history and current events may conceivably affect some in the television audience. But in the House of Representatives, the game is up. More and more members understand that Nixon is desperately trying to conceal the evidence. They understand, too, that accepting his view of impeachment would make him not only the accused but judge and jury. Then the American President would really have the absolute power that Nixon wants.

The ominous logic of Nixon's claims could lead him to argue, even after impeachment and conviction, that the process was "unlawful." Nothing can be excluded in a man so intent on identifying the fate of the Presidency and the American system with his own. We should not underestimate the danger of reckless action from a desperate man. But there is no way now but for Congress to press on with the process of impeachment. It will.

The real threat to us

William S. White

WASHINGTON — As a nation we are sweating too much about disasters that haven't happened and may never happen and far too little about a disaster that is already upon us and could readily turn into a catastrophe.

Only weeks ago, for one illustration, the air was filled with the darkest of forebodings about the energy crisis and specifically the Arab oil embargo.

Eminent experts were postulating a country forced back almost to the age of the bicycle, a consequent ravaging recession if not actually a depression and a permanent change in our life style. Metaphorical soup kitchens were already in the mind's eye.

NOW, THE embargo has been lifted, as those who could remain calm enough to think a bit always knew it had to be and would be. Moreover, one can put it down as certain that an embargo once lifted is not going to be clamped on again. There are several reasons. The most obvious is that there is not now and never was any "Arab unity."

The most important is that King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, who sits upon far the greatest of the Middle Eastern oil reservoirs, isn't about to do anything fatally to damage American interests and thus enormously to advance Soviet interests in the Middle East.

Like the Shah of Iran, who holds strategic command of the ultimate oil outlet in the Persian Gulf, Faisal doesn't mind plucking a tail feather from the American eagle once in a while but will never, repeat never, try to do anything rally to strangle that old bird.

Again, only weeks ago, the collapse even of the Atlantic Alliance that is called NATO seemed a frightening possibility. In this case our fears were more than merely neurotic.

The Europeans, and notably the French, were in fact raising hell with the Atlantic alliance — refusing to make a common front with the United States against Arab oil extortion, biting at us on everything at every point, and in general acting as sulking schoolboys.

But now this specter, too, has passed. A few realistic words from President Nixon and Henry Kissinger, that the United States could not forever continue to guarantee Eur-

When it's wise not to boast of progress in race relations

William F. Buckley

JOHANNESBURG — This is not the ideal moment to interrogate John Vorster, the prime minister of the Republic of South Africa, because on April 24 there will be an election, and between now and April 24 Mr. Vorster, manifestly, does not desire to say the kind of thing that might upset his die-hard wing (I use this designation in preference to "his right wing").

If you were to say to Mr. Vorster, a big smile on your face, "Why, Mr. Prime Minister, relations in South Africa between the races have greatly improved in the last few years!" — he would probably feel he had to answer: "Oh? Have they?" Because to admit that they have improved would suggest to the Bilbo-wing of the Nationalist Party that Mr. Vorster is making concessions to miscegenation which will end by destroying the purity of the white race.

WHAT HE has done, in fact, is to make — slowly, easily, sometimes unnoticed — concessions in the direction of easing the awful Jim Crow that has been a part of the South African ideological ethos for over a generation. But it is the kind of progress it isn't good politics to report. Alan Paton, whose sublime, poetic voice has filtered out of South Africa for 30 years, may be a poor politician, an abstractionist in search of utopia. But he has lately been writing pretty practical things. He says that what will bring relative freedom to the South African black is less the elaborate system of Bantustans (the separate black state), than the requirements of a highly industrialized society. These have put such a premium on skilled labor as to advance the technical training of the black South African, and his compensation on the marketplace.

Forget dreamy political reforms, says Paton, and concentrate instead on economic upward mobility. Therein the solution. And Chief Mangoshe, an influential black leader, says much the same thing.

IT IS, no doubt, under the influence of such analysts that American black leaders, like Roy Wilkins, have come out strongly against economic boycotts of South Africa, aware that these would hurt most the South Africans blacks; whose gradual economic vitalization is the key to political parity.

Meanwhile there are ugly features in South African life which do not relate to the race question. There is the awesome institution by which the minister of justice can "ban" an individual, i.e., confine him to his home, prevent him from writing, or being written to.

I ASKED a government senator, "Do you have to prove that someone is a communist in order to ban him?" Well, no: "You have to prove that what he says plays into the hands of the communists." "Well," I said, "by that token you could theoretically find yourself banning Henry Kissinger." "That would be frivolous," he said; and of course I agreed, though I am not in a position to say that the law hasn't been used in South Africa to ban, frivolously, mere nuisances to the government.

For all of which I was repaid a day later by a telephone call from a reporter from a prominent South African newspaper, who asked me to expand on "the charge" I had made at Johannesburg. "Henry Kissinger is a communist." I told him, through the operator, to go jump in a lake, but I am not in a position to report on whether my recommendation on this, or on other matters, has been followed.

Strange feet

Russell Baker

WASHINGTON — The world is as follows:

Upon removing his shoes at bedtime, P. B. Sykes observes that the feet inside his socks are not his feet, but quite obviously someone else's feet. His wife, noting an unusual expression on his face, inquires if something is wrong. "No," says Sykes, quickly dousing the light.

Sykes firmly believes that terrible things, like finding another person's feet attached to your ankles without even a seam showing, can happen only to other people. Not to P. B. Sykes. So long as he does not tell anyone, the event may yet choose not to happen — or, more precisely, to unhappen to him. So he does not tell Mrs. Sykes. By morning, he believes, the alien feet may have vanished as mysteriously as they have come, and his dear familiar old feet may be back where they belong.

NEXT MORNING finds the strange feet still there. "How's everything, P.B.?" a dozen people ask him before lunch. To each, Sykes replies, "Fine."

He telephones a doctor. A receptionist says the next available appointment is three months distant. Sykes says he has an emergency. "What seems to be the trouble?" asks the woman. Sykes cannot tell her the truth, for he is certain she is incapable of believing that feet can be switched like umbrellas traded in a restaurant mix-up, and will think him mad, and dispatch him to psychiatry.

She is insisting, in fact, that she be lied to. "Chest pains." "An agony in my appendix." Any of a hundred such lies would satisfy her insistence that life never be inexplicable, unorthodox, interesting.

Sykes does not lie, for he knows that even should he break through to the doctor the truth would be ill-received. "Wrong feet, eh, Sykes? Well, well, one man's feet will do as well as another, I suppose. Here, take two of these every four hours and get out of the office more, get off for a good long vacation somewhere, plenty of golf and salt water. . ."

STRANGE FEET can be lived with. Perhaps Sykes's problem is not as rare as one might think. Are there others in the same pickle? He will write to the press and perhaps uncover thousands of persons with a wrong-feet condition. Perhaps there is a club, regular mixer dances, group cruises.

"Dear Editor: I was shocked the other night to discover that I had someone else's feet on," he begins. His letter draws only one reply. "Dear Editor," it begins, "your correspondent Sykes may have been amused to discover that he was wearing another man's feet, but except in the most barbarous English usage, he could not possibly have been shocked. I would concede that he might have been shocked if the two feet in question had not matched, although purists, I believe, will agree that he would merely have been disturbed by this discovery. For my part, sir, I am alarmed at the decline of the language which is so depressingly illustrated by the prose of this curiously footed Sykes."

Sykes runs a classified ad requesting anyone with information about an accidental mix-up of feet to address him at a postal box. In response, he receives three obscene letters and an advertising flyer for 8-mm. movies smuggled out of Mexico.

The government cannot communicate with Sykes about his problem. Since there is no program for the relief, rehabilitation, subsidy, preservation, licensing, suppression or inspection of persons lucklessly left with other people's feet, a federal telephone explains, Sykes cannot be put into a computer, and since he cannot be put into a computer it is impossible for the government to communicate with him.

INTOXICATED at a party one night, Sykes reveals his secret to a beautiful woman. She is an editor with a great publishing house and immediately signs Sykes to a three-book contract, "Feet," "Sons of Feet" and "Strange Are the Toes."

Sykes's feet become the biggest attraction on television talk shows. After each appearance, thousands of cranks swamp network switchboards with calls to say that Sykes is wearing their long-lost feet.

Robert Redford and Dustin Hoffman star in the filmed story of Sykes's life, with a special cameo appearance by Sykes wrong feet. The feet become so swollen with their success that they ache eight hours a day to remind Sykes what a failure the rest of him is.

Sykes becomes such a gigantic international celebrity that he is signed to star in a television commercial for corn plaster. At the studio, he meets Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn, who is making a television commercial for a new Russian dressing in an aerosol can.

That is what the world is like.

REMEMBER THE GREAT PIES MOTHER USED TO THAW OUT?

The reasons for seat belt law

Reference is made to two letters to the editor signed by D. J. White and C. E. Linden (March 17 and 18) regarding Senator Laufenburger's proposed mandatory seat belt law.

The thrust of the two letters indicates that a mandatory seat belt law is an unnecessary and improper infringement on an individual's liberty or freedom of choice.

There is a law in 46 of the 48 states requiring motorcycle drivers to wear a helmet for his or her own protection. The law has no other purpose. Supreme courts in 26 states and the United States Supreme Court have held that the public has an interest in protecting an individual from himself. Citing the fact that if a person is injured in an accident "society picks the person up off the highway; delivers him to a municipal hospital and municipal doctors; provides him with unemployment compensation if, after recovery, he cannot replace his lost job, and, if the injury causes permanent disability, may assume the responsibility for his and his family's subsistence." The court went on to say, "We do not understand a state of mind that permits plaintiff (the person objecting to the helmet law) to think that only he himself is concerned."

Senator Laufenburger should be commended for his foresight in introducing and supporting the bill. A mandatory seat belt law has been in force in the country of Australia for two years and has produced such dramatic results in the reduction of deaths and serious injuries that it cannot be overlooked as a means of achieving the same results in this country. All of our traffic regulations to prevent accidents are an inconvenience to some people. However, the benefits far outweigh the inconvenience, and the same is definitely true of a law requiring the use of the seat belt.

Happiness is...

I took an interest in a letter written a few evenings past in which the author was voicing her indignation concerning the streaking phenomenon.

In this regard, I am reminded of H. L. Mencken's definition of Puritanism: "The haunting fear that someone, somewhere may be happy."

CHARLES W. BIESANZ JR.

Editorial appreciated; hope for the earth

I just read your editorial column and was deeply impressed with the in-depth thinking but most especially with reference to "Some thoughts (of others) on a Sunday in Lent." It expressed beautifully thoughts I have and seem unable to do anything constructive about.

Recently I heard a television discussion called "What is Watergate?" with a professor from New York University. He thought the worst aspect of Watergate was the damage it has already done and will do to the future generations.

They have grown up in a society where lying, stealing, robbing, general business of morale and dishonesty in high places of our government is condoned and on occasion approved of in our government—federal, state and local. This set of values will be carried on into the next generation and so on ad infinitum.

Frankly it frightens me until I get still and listen to the word of God that says even a small remnant of godly people can save our world.

My parting thought is posted on my telephone where I read it several times daily. "The most valuable gift you can give another is a good example." Both my sons-in-law do this for their families daily.

Winona, Minn., is a beautiful place to live and there are many beautiful people here. I am a transplant from Winona, Mo.

Thank you for a fine paper. It is one of the best in the state in my book.

Unhappy teachers can move

Q—"I can't agree with you about idealistic teachers being the best. Idealism gets you nowhere fast. What it takes is a real determination to change things. I'm a teacher and I learned the hard way. I've been assigned to a low-income area. I know what it's like to teach without textbooks and to fight a constant battle with cockroaches, without a fan in summer and no heat in winter."

"This year I had a break. I had a class of 24, a relief from my first year when I had 40. Then I was transferred. Granted, it was to a better situation, but for the first time in three years I had something good going. I loved what I was doing, and I was shifted. I would be perfectly willing to go back to my cockroaches for the joy I had at last found. You must realize that only through teacher protests can improvements come. I talked to my union representative yesterday. We embittered, rudely awakened teachers will fight a dictatorial system, and that's why we're the best going."—C.H., Jacksonville, Fla.

A—You Jacksonville people seem to be having a hard time. Here's my reaction—in two parts:

1—A teacher is hired to teach where the school board and the administration think he can serve children best. I've been transferred from one school to another often, but I never got "embittered" or "rudely awakened" about it. I realized that an individual teacher is usually the very worst judge of where he should be situated, and his "joy" has nothing to do with it.

2—And slavery was abolished a long time ago, C.H. If you don't like the way the people's elected representatives are running the people's schools for the people's children, why don't you quit and go somewhere else where the personnel policies will be more to your liking? It's still a free country.

Winnebago enrollment compiled at meeting

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis.

A Winnebago tribal enrollment, part of an effort to complete a roster of tribal members in Wisconsin and Nebraska who can claim one-quarter Winnebago heritage, was taken at the community building at the Indian Mission Friday.

A $5 million settlement for tribal lands has been awarded by the federal government in a claim started in 1940 to seek partial repayment for lands taken by the white settlers in the 1880s.

A public hearing by the Bureau of Indian Affairs on the disbursement of the money has been postponed so that research can be completed on the number of people in Wisconsin and Nebraska who are eligible for payment.

The Wisconsin Winnebago Council will approve names of persons eligible for a share of the money on April 6.

The ethics of future presidents

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's main defense against turning over documents and tapes to the House Judiciary Committee is that he is not trying to protect himself but the office of the presidency.

He has said he has to think of future presidents when he makes these unpopular decisions to withhold evidence that under any other conditions he would be happy to turn over to Congress.

I think the President is right.

THE YEAR is 2001, and President Harley Finckley, who was overwhelmingly elected by the Radical Energy Party (both the Republican and Democratic parties had gone bankrupt during the Great Depression of 1983), is sitting in the Oval Office at the White House.

His most trusted legal adviser, John Dean IV, the son of John Dean III, comes in. "Mr. President, I must report to you that there is a cancer in your administration. There are people in your own White House family who are trying to mortally wound you."

"I'm glad you told me about that, John. What exactly is going on around here?"

"Well, do you remember last June when seven men broke into the offices of the United Constitutional Party at the Vesco Trade Center?"

"I THINK I saw something about it on television."

"They're threatening to talk about their connection with the Radical Energy Re-election Committee unless we pay them hush money."

"How much would it cost, John?"

"Three trillion dollars."

"We could raise that, John. But it would be wrong."

"Yessir, Mr. President. But if we don't hush them they may talk about the $10 trillion contribution the nuclear energy producers gave to you to raise the price of uranium in the United States."

"I forgot about that."

"There's also the $4 trillion contribution from ITT which was made the day before we agreed to let them buy General Motors, Chrysler and Ford."

"That's not my problem."

"But, sir, we have the meeting on television tape of the chairman of ITT handing you the money."

"What's it doing on television tape?"

"Don't you recall, sir, you ordered all the meetings in the White House to be televised for historical reasons?"

"I forgot about that."

"But the real thing we have to worry about is the break-in of the Washington Redskins' psychiatrist's office. Remember, sir, you wanted to take a look at the psychiatric profiles of the team before you bet on them?"

"Yes, I do remember that, and our people botched it up completely. They stole the records of the Washington Senators, and we haven't had a baseball team here for 30 years."

"I also have to warn you that they're looking into how you got the money to buy the island of Hawaii."

"I borrowed it like everybody else."

"And then there are your taxes. A lot of people cannot understand how on an annual income of $20 trillion you paid only $2.50 in income taxes for 1999."

"I donated all my piano music books to the National Archives."

"YESSIR, Mr. President. But what should we do about hush money for the break-in of the Vesco Trade Center?"

"Do anything you have to do to save me."

"But suppose someone finds out?"

"What's the difference? They can't touch me."

"They can't?"

"Nope. Thanks to the foresight of the greatest constitutional President in American history, Richard M. Nixon. God knows what would have happened to this office if he had taken the easy way out."

Lucey expected to put on more pressure for bills

MADISON (UPI)—The state Legislature swung back into action Tuesday for what was expected to be the final week of the spring session, but Gov. Patrick J. Lucey was expected to put a lot of pressure on in an effort to lift his batting average on major bills.

Lucey has asked for action on 21 major bills prior to the session. Just three of those have been passed by both the Senate and Assembly and that is an anemic 14.3 percentage.

The measures passed were those on corporate farming, solid waste recycling and emergency medical services.

Nine of the governor's proposals have gone through one house and the rest were hanging.

Campaign finance reform, the bill the governor has talked the toughest on, has cleared the Assembly and is before the Senate. However, a substitute measure approved informally by both Democrats and Republicans was expected to be the one that will pass before the lawmakers return to their districts.

Lucey has threatened to call them back into special session if campaign reform was not enacted before next November's elections.

The final legislative step to complete merger of the University of Wisconsin and former state universities' systems also was high on his priority list. The measure has passed the Assembly and was awaiting action in the Senate.

The governor's annual budget review bill, which has a $19.2 million price tag, was locked in the Assembly at the urging of representatives from the larger cities who claim their communities would lose state dollars because of the tax break on manufacturing equipment approved in last year's biennial budget.

Lucey, a Democrat, has gained most of his success in the Democratic-controlled Assembly, the first stop for his priorities.

Other measures which passed the Assembly and were shipped to the Senate included:

- regulation of power plant sites.
- a new housing loan program for veterans.
- tightening open meeting laws of public bodies.
- reorganization of the state's court system.
- regulation of cable television.
- consumer representation on state licensing boards.
- county authority to issue industrial development bonds.

Warren not to seek backing

OSHKOSH, Wis. (UPI)—Attorney General Robert Warren said Monday he would not seek endorsement as the Republican candidate for governor but he did not rule out a draft.

"I don't want to stand in the way of anybody else," Warren told the 6th District GOP caucus.

Warren said his statement was intended to clear the way for others to seek endorsement by the party at its convention in May. He said, however, that it was possible he would run for the nomination in the September primary and, since it was considered unlikely he would run against an endorsed candidate, a draft would seem to be the answer to any Warren candidacy.

Just last weekend Warren said he would run if there was a "genuine" draft and if the party gave adequate support and financing.

Warren, after his speech, told reporters he would still prefer to be appointed a federal judge but, "The party doesn't seem to be able to get it resolved."

Warren has been mentioned as a possible nominee for the judgeship in Wisconsin's eastern district. It has been vacant for three years and the front-running candidate, Rep. Glenn Davis, has run into opposition from some organized groups and from Sen. Gaylord Nelson who says he feels he has the votes to block a Davis appointment.

Warren said he would have an announcement at a future date as to his "future public service role."

State Republican Chairman David Sullivan, commenting on Warren's apparent withdrawal, said the remaining possible Republican candidates were former Madison Mayor William Dyke, State Sen. James Devitt of Greenfield and State Sen. Robert Kasten of Brown Deer.

Sullivan also said he felt Warren "would be the strongest possible candidate for attorney general."

Warren said he was not pressured by anyone to make his announcement, but he has been pressed by Republicans to make up his mind so that the party could line up its fall slate.

Many Republicans said they were waiting to see which way Warren went before announcing their candidates for state offices.

Bus drivers to attend workshop at Rushford

School bus drivers in Winona, Fillmore and Houston counties have been invited to attend a driver workshop at Rushford, Minn., High School Wednesday.

The workshop is being conducted by the Winona State College Traffic and Safety Center in cooperation with the Minnesota Department of Education.

To be considered during the three-hour program beginning at 10 a.m. will be human relations, vehicle maintenance, driving skills, rules and regulations and emergency situations.

Workshop arrangements are being made by Odin Bratland, Rushford's bus contractor.

Richard Beck, Winona State faculty member who is serving as workshop coordinator, expects about 50 drivers to attend. The public is invited.

Charged in Kronholm case

Kidnap suspect hearing set

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.

(AP)—The first of three Minneapolis men charged in connection with the March 15 kidnaping of Eunice Kronholm, wife of a South St. Paul banker, was scheduled for a preliminary hearing today in U.S. District Court in Minneapolis.

James W. Johnson, 35, a suburban Lakeville housing contractor, is charged with extorting $200,000 in ransom money from Mrs. Kronholm's husband, Gunnar, under the Hobbs Act. He and the two other defendants, facing similar charges are being held on $100,000 bond each.

The FBI arrested the third suspect, Thomas Gary Hodgman, 31, Monday, and agent Philip Enlow said in announcing the arrest that indications are "that all persons involved in the abduction have been arrested."

Hodgman was arraigned before U.S. Magistrate U. Earl Cudd. He told the court he is employed as a truck driver for Famous Foods in Minneapolis, is married and has one child. He asked the court for time to check the cost of hiring his own attorney.

A preliminary hearing has been set April 2 for Hodgman. In an affidavit attached to the complaint filed against Hodgman, the FBI said the crime was planned at a night-long beer-drinking session.

The FBI said the three suspects drank beer in a Minneapolis bar until early morning and then drove to Lino Lakes, where two of them crept through the woods to the victim's home and hid in a shed until Mrs. Kronholm appeared.

The FBI affidavit identified Hodgman as a nephew of Johnson, who will appear today for a preliminary hearing in the case.

The third accused abductor, Frederick H. Helberg Jr., 43, an unemployed South St. Paul carpenter, will appear for his preliminary hearing Wednesday.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Thor Anderson told the court that Hodgman had a record of being absent without leave while in the military. A government spokesman said Hodgman had served as an enlisted man in the U.S. Army.

The FBI said that all but $80 of the ransom had been recovered. Some $180,000 was found in a garage at a home in Burns, taken from Helberg when he was held. Another $9,900 was FBI said.

LOSE 20 POUNDS IN TWO WEEKS!

Famous U.S. Women Ski Team Diet

During the non-snow off season the U.S. Women's Alpine Ski Team members go on the "Ski Team" diet to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. That's right — 20 pounds in 14 days! The basis of the diet is chemical food action and was devised by a famous Colorado physician especially for the U.S. Ski Team. Normal energy is maintained (very important!) while reducing. You keep "full" — no starvation — because the diet is designed that way. It's a diet that is easy to follow whether you work, travel or stay at home. (Not the grapefruit diet!).

This is, honestly, a fantastic successful diet. If it weren't, the U.S. Women's Ski Team wouldn't be permitted to use it! Right? So, give yourself the same break the U.S. Ski Team gets. Lose weight the scientific, proven way. Even if you've tried all the other diets, you owe it to yourself to try the U.S. Women's Ski Team Diet. That is, if you really do want to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. Order today. Tear this out as a reminder.

Rushford approves plan on shared superintendent

RUSHFORD, Minn. (Special) — The Board of Education of the Rushford School District has accepted a proposal made by the Peterson School Board to have a joint superintendent. The vote was 5-1.

A committee will be formed from the two boards to write a job description and other details of the joint superintendency, which could become effective in September, according to Robert McCluskey, chairman of the Rushford School Board.

DENNIS W. RISLOVE, 28, superintendent of the Peterson School District, would serve the two schools.

David W. Evans, who has been superintendent of the Rushford School District the past 19 years, will retire July 31.

There is a distance of four miles between the two schools. Rushford has about 750 students in kindergarten through grade 12, Peterson about 234.

Rislove, possibly the youngest superintendent in the state of Minnesota, is a Winona State College graduate. He is in his third year as Peterson administrator.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rislove, Rushford, and a graduate of Rushford High School, he received a bachelor of science degree in mathematics and physical science at Winona State College and a master's degree in school administration at Wisconsin State University-Superior.

He taught high school math for two years at Brookwood High School, Norwalk, Wis., and spent one year in Craig, Alaska, a remote island Indian village. AFTER RISLOVE earned his master's degree he was high school principal at Seneca, Wis., for two years before moving to Peterson.

His wife, the former Ann Smith, Merrill, Wis., was graduated from the College of Saint Teresa, Winona, where she majored in English.

The Risloves have two sons: Danny and Joe.

Evans has had many years of experience in education, advancing from teacher to principal and finally to superintendent. He received his bachelor of science degree at South Dakota State College, later earning a master's degree in education. He taught in high schools in Sioux Falls, S.D., and Tracy, Minn., before becoming principal at Perham, Minn.

He was superintendent at Bryant, S.D., and Clearbrook, Minn., before accepting the position at Rushford in the fall of 1965.

Six years were spent in the Army Infantry from 1940-46. He also saw action overseas.

Evans has two children — a daughter and a son. His wife has died.

Trempealeau Co. Demos ask Nixon impeachment

PIGEON FALLS, Wis. (Special) — The Trempealeau County Democratic Party at a public meeting here Monday night adopted a resolution favoring the impeachment of President Nixon.

The 40 persons attending the meeting at the Pigeon Falls Bank also adopted a resolution deploring the apparent adoption by the Nixon administration of the goals of the "Flanigan Report."

The resolution stated that the report "undermines dairy and beef industries to the extent we will be dependent on imported supplies of dairy and beef products of uncertain quantity and quality."

BYRON PRIDE, Osseo, county chairman, remarked: "Our government needs to get back on its feet in order to regain respect."

Three Democratic candidates running for office spoke. They are:

- Tom Stanton, 32, Eau Claire, who will announce his candidacy April 15 for the position now held by 3rd District Congressman Vernon Thomson (R) Richland Center, Wis.
- Tom Harnisch, Neillsville, seeking the office of senator in the 31st District. The incumbent, Sen. Raymond Johnson, rural Eleva, is a candidate for the Supreme Court.
- A. T. Lahmeyer, 46, a Black River Falls optometrist, running for the Democratic nomination for the State Assembly seat for the 91st District held by Eugene Oberle, Stanley.

DELEGATES elected to the state and district conventions were:

Pride: Gloria Severson, Osseo; Mrs. Margaret O'Brien, Clarence Krumm, Mr. and Mrs. John Killian, Arcadia; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Nelsestuen, Ettrick; Gary Everson, Blair, and Frank Hilgart, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tomter and Mr. and Mrs. Nels Hegge, Whitehall. Alternates named: Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Stuve and Mrs. Frank Hilgart, Whitehall; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Holle, Strum; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schansberg, Blair, and Mrs. Pride, Osseo.

House takes up $7 billion school aid bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House takes up the $7 billion school aid bill today with heated debate likely on several key amendments, including one to limit busing for racial purposes.

In all, more than 60 amendments have been offered to the bill that will extend the federal aid to education program for three more years. The measure authorizes a $7 billion expenditure in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The amendments, which are expected to cause most of the controversy since most Democrats and Republicans favor the bill in principle, fall into three main categories:

- Amendments to change the method of allocating funds according to the poverty level in each school district.
- Amendments to restrict busing within school districts.
- Amendments to restrict the rights of teachers to organize and strike.

There are more than two dozen amendments to change the bill's method of allocating funds which some lawmakers contend is unfair to urban areas. There are two major anti-busing amendments likely to be debated, both of which are opposed by civil rights, labor and church groups.

One amendment, sponsored by four Michigan congressmen and supported by the administration, sets a standard definition of school segregation and prohibits court-ordered busing to end segregation. The basic thrust of the amendment is to ban busing beyond the second nearest school within each district.

Convicted Watergate burglar awaits parole

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The parole of convicted Watergate burglar Frank A. Sturgis will take effect when his appeal is decided by the U.S. District Appeals Court, the U.S. Parole Board decided Monday.

The Parole Board Jan. 7 granted Sturgis parole effective March 7. Before that could take effect, the district appeals court released him on appeal bond and took jurisdiction in the case. The action means Sturgis will be paroled when his appeal is decided.

Sturgis, 49, began a one-to-four year sentence March 23, 1973, for conspiracy, burglary, intercepting communications and possession of intercepting devices in connection with the break-in June 17, 1972 at Democratic headquarters at the Watergate.

Doggone dog puts nude couple in embarrassing fix

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Police rushed to a suburban home to find a man and his wife handcuffed together in the nude.

Patrolman Fred Hansen said the embarrassed couple told him they were "fooling around" with a pair of handcuffs Sunday and locked each other to a ceiling-high bookcase.

The husband said he accidentally dropped the key and his dog promptly swallowed it.

The couple managed to dial the telephone operator to request assistance. Hansen said he freed them with his own handcuff key.

"I feel like kicking the hell out of that dog," the nude man said.

Goodview public hearings set

By TOM JONES
Daily News Staff Writer
The Goodview City Council Monday evening scheduled two public hearings for April 9 in Goodview City Hall.

A hearing concerning the water main extension to 35th Avenue for United Building Center will begin at 7:30 p.m., and discussion of a franchise for TelePrompTer Cable Services, Inc., will get under way at 8:15.

THOMAS PITTS, TelePrompTer manager, met with the council Monday to discuss the proposed franchise. Under terms of the contract, cable TV service to the city could be renewed after five years for an additional five-year period. Renewal would be mandatory if TelePrompTer complied with all contract guidelines set down by the Federal Communications Commission.

According to City Attorney Kent Gernander, the franchise could be amended to allow for negotiations after one five-year period, rather than making the first renewal mandatory. Pitts, however, said that TelePrompTer prefers to contract on a 10-year base. The franchise is similar to the one entered into by the city of Winona.

The agreement provides for an office to handle complaints, and stipulates free service for municipal buildings. Pitts said that rates are adjusted to individual franchise areas, so that an estimate of rates for Goodview would be unavailable until the company could project what the contract would cost to carry out. TelePrompTer, he said, would have to justify and show definite need for increase before rates would be raised in any area.

A FEASIBILITY study concerning the proposed extension of water mains to 35th Avenue along Service Drive for the United Building Center development has been presented to the council by City Engineer Robert L. Webber. Webber's findings indicated that the proposed route, which runs from 8th Street to 35th Avenue is the best route. The plan has been favored by the council since it would make allowance for future area development by providing immediate water service improvement. The plan will have to be confirmed within the next seven weeks, and all aspects of it will be discussed at the April 9 hearing.

In other action, the council: • Met with Northern States Power Co. representatives Frank Utecht and Neil Nelson to discuss installation permits and inspection procedures for city gas hookups. The council and representatives stressed the need for uniformity in regulating gas installations and inspection.

• Agreed not to assess liquidated damages against American Plumbing Co. for delays in construction of the Winona-

Goodview sewer interconnection project.

• Approved the purchase of new lights for the liquor store bar and lounge. The lights will come from Winona Lighting Studio and will cost about $600 before installation.

• Discussed purchase of a new furnace and blower system for the Winona-Goodview sanitary sewer interconnection lift station.

• Approved a building permit for Donald W. Cramer, 945 48th Avenue, for the destruction of a 14- by 22-foot garage and the building of a new 24- by 28-foot garage.

• Ordered a preliminary study on storm sewer, curb and gutter costs.

• Adopted urban boundaries for the 1973 Federal Aid Urban System as proposed by the Minnesota Highway Department in conjunction with Winona and Goodview.

• Laid over a discussion of sewer rates for commercial designations.

State to get less gasoline during April

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota will have less gasoline in April than it did in March, says the state civil defense director.

James Erchul's pessimistic forecast Monday was despite an announcement by William Simon, federal energy chief, that April gasoline allocations will be increased over March. Erchul said a 6 per cent cut-back by Canada on its crude oil shipments to three Minnesota refineries and one in Superior, Wis., would largely offset any gain in supply from domestic suppliers.

He added that he expects demand for gasoline to climb in April, putting Minnesota in a shorter position than this month.

Erchul said more gasoline service stations in outstate Minnesota were open Sunday, but there was no substantial change in the amount of traffic. Both Erchul and Robert Borrett, executive director of the Minnesota Association of Petroleum Retailers, expect further increases in the price of gasoline.

"Domestic oil companies will be getting more Arab oil," Erchul said, "and will be blending it in with U. S. oil so all prices will have to go up."

Borrett said he feels that President Nixon prepared the nation for higher prices when he told a news conference last Tuesday that gasoline prices will be high. Borrett added that it wouldn't surprise him if gasoline prices went up again as early as April 1.

Warning issued on 'dangerous' TV sets

Some portable television sets that may have defective focus resistors that could pose a possible fire safety problem may have been sold by the J.C. Penney Store, 1850 Service Dr.

Manager Paul H. Miller said that the sets involved are Penncrest 18-inch portable color models.

ONLY THE models with the following serial numbers are involved, Miller said:

- Penncrest lot number 2855 with serial numbers beginning with CA042, CA043, CA066, CA112, CA113, CA122 and CA123.
- Penncrest lot number 2855A with serial numbers beginning with CD132 and CD133.

The sets, made by Matsushita Electric of Japan, were imported from 1971 through 1973.

Miller urged owners to check the lot number at the center of the rear of the cabinet and the serial number at the upper right corner on the rear of the cabinet.

OWNERS who find a serial number with the prefix listed above should unplug the set immediately and contact the J.C. Penney store for free modification.

The manager said employees are searching records to contact known buyers and that the Consumer Product Safety Commission has been notified.

Abortion law challenge set

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota's new abortion law is less than a week old, yet a lawsuit has been filed in U.S. District Court challenging its constitutionality.

Monday, a pregnant woman and five physicians filed a class action suit seeking to overturn portions of the newly-enacted law. Among the 11 defendants named in the suit was Gov. Wendell Anderson.

The woman, identified in the suit as "Marjorie Moe," is seeking $1 million in actual damages and $5 million in punitive damages from the defendants.

The suit claims that the abortion law, which took effect last Friday, and state Department of Health regulations for abortion facilities were enacted "in bad faith" and without regard to the decisions last year of the U.S. Supreme Court and the Minnesota Supreme Court.

Included among defendants are chief legislative sponsors of the law, Sen. Stanley Thorup, DFL-Coon Rapids, and Rep. William Quirin, DFL-Rochester; Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life and three active members of that organization, Marjorie Mecklenberg, Daria St. Martin and Rosemary Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson is a sister of Senate DFL Leader Nicholas Coleman.

The suit charges them with alleged bad faith actions intentionally designed to subvert the Supreme Court decisions on abortion and with illegal conspiracy to lobby for passage of unconstitutional laws.

The plaintiffs further claim the MOCL "flagrantly and in bad faith" violated the provision of tax laws which forbid lobbying by tax exempt organizations.

The abortion bill passed last week prohibits abortion after 4 1/2 months of pregnancy except to save the life or health of the woman.

A hearing on a request for an injunction will be held before U.S. District Judge Miles Lord in Minneapolis at 9 a.m. Thursday.

The chief aim of the bill is to allow the council to help municipalities that do not want to establish their own authorities, but the council could act only

Metropolitan Council gets housing, renewal powers

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Metropolitan Council could go into the housing business, with the powers of a housing and redevelopment authority, under a bill given final approval by both chambers of the Minnesota Legislature Monday.

The measure, sent to Gov. Wendell Anderson for signature on a 39-11 Senate vote and a 76-49 tally in the House, gives the council its first direct operating authority. Since its creation in 1967, the 15 member board has conducted planning studies and reviewed plans and grant applications of other government units.

The chief aim of the bill is to allow the council to help municipalities that do not want to establish their own authorities, but the council could act only at the request of local governments in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

In other legislative action, the Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill equalizing the punishment for prostitutes and their patrons. Both offenses would be gross misdemeanors.

Customers of prostitutes would be subject to a year in jail and a fine of $1,000.

The Senate killed a bill which would have created a new department of transportation in state government. The vote was 34-30 against the House-passed bill. The issue is now dead for this session.

The new department would have merged the highway and aeronautics departments and taken some powers from the State Public Service Commission.

Municipal harbor fees to increase

Increases of pier and slip charges at the municipal harbor passed the city council Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kan, owners of Dick's Marine and operators of the city-owned harbor, requested the increases of 25 to 50 percent to cover hiked maintenance costs.

The increase is the first requested since they assumed harbor operation in 1966, they said.

The new rates mean fees of $2 per foot width for open slips (formerly $1.50), $25 per month for covered slips ($20), $1.50 per foot width for bathhouses and shelters ($1.20), and $3 monthly for electricity ($2).

The slip rent season still runs from May 1 to Oct. 31, and the season rate of five months rent rather than six still applies for tenants who pay in advance.

Winona may collect 5 percent of slip rental income above $13,500, and the new rates will mean some more revenue for the city, according to Kan.

At-large councilman Stephen Delano (1st, 2nd wards), finding that harbor tenants were not forewarned of the increase, said the council may be hearing from tenants soon.

Scott proposes expansion of Amtrak service

Winona's DFL candidate for Congress today proposed expanded Amtrak rail service in Southeastern Minnesota.

Ulric C. Scott, 1176 W. 5th St., who is seeking DFL endorsement in his bid to unseat 1st District Republican Rep. Albert H. Quie, today announced a plan that would provide Amtrak service in a loop south of the Twin Cities.

The proposed loop which Scott called "an experiment in regional mass transit service," would provide two trains each day — one in each direction — on a loop to include Lake City, Wabasha, Winona, St. Charles, Rochester, Dodge Center, Owatonna, Faribault, Northfield, Farmington and the Twin Cities.

He called for federal funds to finance the experiment, suggesting "if mass transit systems are being designed for future use we should begin with practical, useful steps which can be taken here and now."

Open meeting bill set for introduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill requiring all congressional committee meetings be open to the public except those involving national security deliberations will be introduced by Rep. Bill Gunter, D-Fla.

Gunter said he will offer his proposals in an amendment when a House committee reorganization measure reaches the House floor in the near future.

Sunday sale of gasoline has little impact

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The lifting of the voluntary ban on Sunday gasoline sales apparently made little impact in Minnesota Sunday.

The State Patrol reported decreased traffic in northern Minnesota and slightly increased traffic in the metropolitan area, where 32 gasoline stations were open. None of them had people waiting in line, however.

Cold weather and the fact that most gasoline stations remained closed Sunday accounted for the below-normal traffic outside, the patrol said.

Some people say they've had no problems getting enough gasoline, except for the higher prices in recent months.

A 26-year-old woman said the only inconvenience she's had is "President Nixon making announcements on television interrupting my favorite programs."

But, for service station operators, the problem is very real. Ben Rittmiller, a Minneapolis station operator, said he's been open Sundays for the past three weeks.

"We are not making any money," Rittmiller said. "We are just trying to survive now."

He said if he took the profits allowed by federal guidelines, his prices would be too high and his volume would fall off.

Other operators say they can sell all the gasoline they can get.

Darrell Kreimeyer, Minneapolis, said he could sell twice as much gasoline if he could get it.

He said he's locked in by monthly allocations, and he may have to close for a few days at the end of the month.

"But I'll pump all the gas I can till then," he added.

Moochers provoke her energy crisis

DEAR ABBY: I play cards with several different groups of women. Everyone who owns a car leaves it home, and I always seem to be the one who has to pick up three or four women and drive them home. With the energy crisis, I feel this is unfair.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

How about a comment on transportation moochers?

CONSTANT READER

DEAR CONSTANT: Next time you have all the moochers in your car, try this: "Girls, this is your chauffeur speaking. Because of the energy crisis, we must all take turns driving. We'll start alphabetically. Mrs. Applebaum, you're first."

DEAR ABBY: It's high time you published something in defense of smokers.

I am a smoker and I enjoy smoking. Smoking has long been one of life's pleasures, and to deny it is absurd.

In order to survive in the world today, one must learn how to give and take, and for a nonsmoker to make a smoker uncomfortable by depriving him of his smoking pleasure is just as selfish as it is for a smoker to make a nonsmoker uncomfortable by smoking in his presence.

If I sense that someone really objects to my smoking, I take myself and my cigarette into another room. I think the nonsmoker should have the same consideration for the smoker, and if the smoke bothers him, HE should move.

There should be a 50-50 compromise. The smokers have been made to feel guilty long enough, and it's time the nonsmokers learned to cope with a smoke-filled society. His nonsmoking righteousness makes me just as angry as my smoke makes him!

SICK OF NONSMOKERS IN CINC

DEAR SICK: There's about as much substance to your argument as there is in a cloud of smoke. If one deliberately elects to pollute the air because of a habit he either will not or cannot control—let HIM move.

DEAR ABBY: My oldest two children attended public school in West Los Angeles, and also raced home to use the bathroom because of conditions in the restrooms at school. "Concerned Parent's" letter, printed Jan. 15, didn't mention off-limits restrooms in junior high schools due to knifings, fires in trashbaskets, and violence. My youngest son attends a private school and there are no restroom problems, so it is apparent that the problem can be solved if school administration wants to solve it.

I suggest that the teachers' restrooms be closed, and that teachers use the same restrooms students use. The inconvenience and lack of privacy for teachers would be more than compensated for by the safer and more sanitary conditions for students. The restroom conditions must be of great concern to competent teachers.

It seems to me that the only question is "are school restrooms unsafe for teachers?" If so, where does that leave our children?

MY PROBLEM SOLVED. HOW ABOUT YOURS?

Your horoscope — Jeane Dixon

For WEDNESDAY, MARCH 27
Your birthday today: Opens a full year of retraining, educational, spiritual, and personal skills, often responsibility without quite the authority or reward you deserve for carrying it. Much of the year's experience is beyond easy statement in words — the telling comes later. If all this today's natives are of many diverse types sharing a propensity for personal adventure. Some have been noted for scientific discovery.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Leave your nervous intact and gathering interest despite a sudden urge to spend as an expression of your sentiments. Get in full day's work.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): The market for your ideas is a trifle thin today. Being obstinate doesn't work—find some way of settling a better perspective before you push.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): See yourself as a sort of caretaker for your social and career projects. Tomorrow is another day in which definite action is appropriate.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): One of your basic tendencies is to find something to complain about which has nothing to do with what is really bothering you. Listen to yourself and get priceless insight.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Two extra words will get you a quarrel if it's what you want. Those who know you the best are either the most helpful or the greatest opponents.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It may seem to you that all is calm when, in reality, there may be more than appears on the surface. It's a good day for investigating puzzles and old questions.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The day and evenings are generally unsettled; nothing to get upset over except possible discoloration of events which took place a long time ago.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Select work which can be done without close cooperation, preferably tasks involving no decision-making. A change of pace is desirable in evening.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The best thing you can do today is to be sure you aren't bruising people's feelings unnecessarily. It's a day rich in potential self-discovery.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The fact that none of the usual moves works shouldn't panic you, but should be used as a way of learning something. Concentrate on your job.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): When others disagree with you, remember that it's nothing new, just your turn coming up, and that you may have been harsh when disagreeing with others.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): There's a demand all around for sympathy, but nobody is likely to offer you any. Strike middle ground—healthy self-interest has not gone out of style.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): See yourself as a sort of caretaker for your social and career projects. Tomorrow is another day in which definite action is appropriate.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): One of your basic tendencies is to find something to complain about which has nothing to do with what is really bothering you. Listen to yourself and get priceless insight.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Select work which can be done without close cooperation, preferably tasks involving no decision-making. A change of pace is desirable in evening.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The best thing you can do today is to be sure you aren't bruising people's feelings unnecessarily. It's a day rich in potential self-discovery.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The fact that none of the usual moves works shouldn't panic you, but should be used as a way of learning something. Concentrate on your job.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): When others disagree with you, remember that it's nothing new, just your turn coming up, and that you may have been harsh when disagreeing with others.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): There's a demand all around for sympathy, but nobody is likely to offer you any. Strike middle ground—healthy self-interest has not gone out of style.

Women need sense of past along with dream of future, says speaker

By CAROLYN KOSIDOWSKI
Daily News Women's Editor

Women of the '70s have a dream of the future and they are attempting to bring that dream into existence, said Sister Elaine Wicks, Franciscan vocation educator from Rochester, as she addressed an informal gathering of students and faculty at the College of Saint Teresa Monday evening.

Women, she said, have been treated as half-human and can identify with the oppressed wherever they may be. Women have the potential to change society for a better future, she said. But while making these changes, women need a sense of humor to help them cope while they are working on their dream.

"IN ORDER to know who we are and where we are going," she said, "we need to develop a sense of our past."

Tracing woman's past in the United States, she noted that two babies were born on board the Mayflower. The baby boy was given a name and a celebration was held while the girl's birth went unrecorded.

Religion was no help at all because it served as a force to keep the women in the homes, Sister Elaine said.

"When external forces strive to make us feel inferior, it is hard to build self-confidence."

Concerning the sexual revolution, she said that if freedom means responsibility, it also means women have a right to say yes or no and many may choose to say no.

"WE NEED to get rid of the term 'women's liberation' and focus instead on 'personal liberation' for men and women alike. The rising of women is the rising of us all."

"Liberation," she said "can be a Christian experience. A Christian is free — free to get in touch with himself and from there he can get in touch with his neighbor and then with God. A Christian is free to love."

"We must stop pulling away from each other and work to complete not to compete if we are to change society."

"Each of us," she said, "has a unique gift to give and we must be willing to give that gift."

ILLUSTRATING her talk with music and slides, Sister Elaine depicted the various roles women have played in the past and questioned the role of today's woman and where she really wants to go. Quoting from the lines of a popular song, "I Am Woman," she said, "I am strong, I am invincible; I am an embryo with a long way to go until I make my brother understand."

Sister Elaine will return to the College of Saint Teresa for a second discussion Monday at 7 p.m. at Lourdes North Lounge. The topic to be presented will focus on questions posed to the speaker during the informal rap session held following Monday evening's presentation.

Turns attention to colleges

Olberding whips Bemidji

By PAT THOMPSON
ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A banner Melrose career at end, Mark Olberding turns his attention to which college he will take his awesome basketball talents.

The choices have been narrowed down to Minnesota, Notre Dame, Maryland and Oregon, and from all indications the 6-foot-7½ Olberding will be going to Minnesota.

Olberding led undefeated Melrose to a 53-42 victory over Bemidji Monday night in the Championship Playoff of the 62nd Minnesota High School Basketball Tournament with 30 points and 14 rebounds.

Olberding will play next Sunday in the Dapper Dan Classic — a game matching the nation's best high school prospects at Pittsburgh. He also was to have visited Oregon before announcing which college he will attend.

"That visit may be off now," Olberding said. "I may make my decision this week."

Olberding has attracted national attention by steering Melrose to 27 straight victories. With Olberding demolishing opponents, Melrose finished with 27 straight victories and the distinction of never trailing in the second half of any game.

"As soon as a team started to make a comeback," explained Melrose Coach Del Schiffer, "Mark either blocked a shot or made some key baskets. It seemed that he sensed it was time to take control. It was that way all year."

It was also that way against Bemidji, which brought a 22-2 record into the game after upsetting Richfield 52-50 Saturday night for the Class AA title. Melrose defeated Mound 38-32 for the Class A crown.

Melrose took a 13-6 lead after the first quarter and opened up a 19-6 bulge midway through the second eight minutes before Bemidji made its only serious move of the night before a crowd of 8,783 at St. Paul Civic Center. The Lumberjacks reeled off seven straight points to narrow the count to 19-13 with 3:10 left in the half.

Olberding, who blocked six shots and intercepted two passes, finished up the half with three baskets, and Melrose took a 27-17 lead into the third quarter. Bemidji never came closer.

"I was looking for our best game of the tournament and we got it," said Schiffer. "I was dissatisfied with the way we shot from the outside in the Class A final over Mound. Our wings made only three of 20 field goal tries. If we don't get the outside shooting, they can double and triple-team Mark."

Olberding was aided by Kurt Schulzetenberg with 10 points, Linus Dumont with eight and Marv Thielen with seven. The Dutchmen shot 48.1 per cent from the field while Bemidji made only 17 of 58 attempts for 29.3 per cent.

"Give all the credit to Melrose," said Bemidji Coach Jack Luoma. "They beat us soundly and are a superior team. But we're still champions. You can't take our Class AA championship away from us."

"There is a lot of bigtime basketball ahead for Olberding. But they don't rely on him for everything. Their defense was outstanding."

Jack Schwartz, a 6-2 sophomore, led Bemidji with 12 points while Steve Vogel, 6-7 senior, added 13.

The attendance, far below capacity at 8,783 pushed the tournament total to 125,851, or 222 less than last year's figures at the University of Minnesota.

Melrose finished the season as the only undefeated team out of Minnesota's more than 500 public and private schools.

St. James, in 1972 and Sherburne, in 1970, and the Edina teams of 1966 and 1967 were Minnesota's most recent undefeated teams.

"We felt we had a shot at going undefeated all the way," said Schiffer. "First of all, there are not many players who can dominate a game like Mark can. Still, we have a very balanced club. There was no pressure — pressure is something you create yourself. The players seemed to be loose for every game."

Melrose, which lost the 1971 playoff game to Duluth Central and finished up Class A runner-up in 1972 and 1973, has appeared in five straight state tournaments.

Schiffer is not discounting the possibility of a sixth straight. Dumont and Thielen will return, along with 6-3½ sophomore Dennis Wessel who started the opening game and then missed most of the season with a broken arm.

But it could be awhile before another Olberding comes along. The husky senior finished the 1974 tournament with 112 points and 60 rebounds, displaying prowess all over the court. In 10 tournament games the last three years, he scored 128 points and added 161 rebounds.

When he was taken out of Monday night's game, he received a standing ovation from the crowd.

Next year is now for North Carolina State

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — The cry of "Wait 'Til Next Year" no longer resounds across Wolfpack Country.

Next year is now.

The souped-up North Carolina State basketball team clinched its right to the No. 1 place with a convincing 76-64 conquest of third-ranked Marquette Monday night in the finals of the NCAA championship tournament.

A year ago, Coach Norman Sloan and his troops finished 27-6 but had to settle for nothing headier than the Atlantic Coast Conference championship because the NCAA slapped them with a year's probation for alleged recruiting irregularities.

The Wolfpack was burned in the scramble for a budding superstar from Shelby, N.C., named David Thompson. Post season competition was forbidden.

So, while mighty UCLA added a seventh straight jewel to its championship collection last year, North Carolina State watched on television at home—and waited.

For better than 17 minutes, the Wolfpack and Warriors met on even terms. Marquette led by a point, 28-27.

Then, in 53 blazing seconds, aided by two technical fouls against wily Marquette Coach Al McGuire, North Carolina State scored 10 straight points to zoom into a nine-point lead.

McGuire was later to say, "I cost us a game with those two technicals. That gave them two five-point plays."

The 10 points included two layups by 7-foot-4 Tom Burleson a basket by Phil Spencer, and four Thompson free throws.

It was 39-30 at the half and 54-33 after less than six minutes of the second half. Marquette never got closer than nine points after that and the suspense was gone.

All that remained was the final score and North Carolina State's 28th straight victory in a 30-1 season.

The Wolfpack, which figured to have the better bench, used only seven players, Thompson and guard Mo Rivers going the full 40 minutes.

Sloan explained, "We called upon a very few for a great deal. It wasn't that we lacked confidence in the others."

Shooting statistics graphically told the story Monday night—56.5 per cent for the Wolfpack and a chilly 36 for the Warriors.

Thompson's 21 points, 16 by the 5-foot-7 Monte Towe, and 14 each by Burleson and Rivers led North Carolina State. Burleson also blocked seven shots and had 11 rebounds.

Marquette, 26-5, got a super game from Maurice Lucas, 21 points and 13 rebounds and 12 points and 11 rebounds from freshman Bo Ellis.

North Carolina State's quickness brought 12 steals, three each by Thompson, Rivers and sturdy Tim Stoddard, who added eight points and seven rebounds. They put Thompson, Burleson and Towe on the All-Tournament team along with Bill Walton of UCLA and Marquette's Lucas.

I lost the game, admits McGuire

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Marquette coach Al McGuire, saying "I had a bad day," calculated Monday that the technical fouls against him in the first half of the NCAA — final with North Carolina State cost his team the championship.

Marquette was ahead by a point when McGuire, protesting a charging call against Marcus Washington, jumped up and kicked a sign reading "NCAA" on the front of the scorer's table. Seconds later, the fiery Irishman incurred another technical foul when he ran to the middle of the court to argue another call.

North Carolina State got 10 straight points and went on to win, 76-64, in the nationally televised contest.

"I would say that I lost the game," McGuire said when it was all over. "I would say I gave them two five-point plays and that was it."

"I had a bad day," McGuire had previously said he believed that it is "a mortal sin" for a coach to get a technical foul called against him when his team has the ball, adding "I didn't mean to do it, fellas."

McGuire declined to discuss what he thought was wrong with the two calls.

"I would rather not because I was absolutely right," he said. (Continued on next page)

Norton is facing 3-1 underdog role

CARACAS (AP) — Ken Norton, a fighting philosopher girded with the power of positive thinking, carries a 3-1 underdog role into the 15-round heavyweight title bout tonight against bull-strong George Foreman.

"I am a thinking fighter—not a physical fighter," the 28-year-old, one-time marine from San Diego, Calif., said as he approached the most important ring test of his life. "I believe it takes positive thoughts to win."

"I have those positive thoughts. I have analyzed what I should do in every situation. I have made a thorough study of my opponent. I am ready to fight."

The challenger, "asplante," as they say here—brings impressive physical attributes into the collision with the 6-foot-3, 224½-pound titleholder who clubbed Joe Frazier into helplessness with six knockdowns in two rounds 14 months ago in Jamaica.

A lowering 6-3 athlete himself, with a long reach and bigger biceps than Foreman, Norton weighed in at 212½ pounds and he looked hard as nails. Foreman, on the other hand, at 224½ is seven pounds heavier than in the Frazier fight. He looks a bit flabby at 26 years of age.

The championship bout will start at 9:30 p.m. CDT, in the sparkling, glass-domed Paledio, with its 13,500 orange, red, blue and purple seats.

It's a dazzling setting.

However, hundreds of the seats probably will be unoccupied. With seats scaled at $14 to $140 the arena is not a sellout. But Video Techniques, handling ancillary rights, reports closed circuit booking in 200 locations, with one million seats, in the United States and Canada and sales to 70 countries overseas.

Norton, a single child in a middle class Jacksonville, Ill., family, was virtually unknown until he cracked Muhammad Ali's jaw and won a 12-round decision last March 31. All came back to avenge the loss with a close 12-round decision in September, but Norton already was a contender to be reckoned with.

"I am a boxer-puncher," the challenger said, "This is the technique I like and hope to use against Foreman. Against Ali, it's necessary to be a chaser-hunter. I like to slip punches, block them and counter."

This will mark the second title defense for Foreman, who has been plagued by legal entanglements and divorce proceedings back home. He is being sued by groups in both Philadelphia and Las Vegas, claiming percentages of his ancillary gains. And he recently had to give his ex-wife a $235,000 lump sum and $400 monthly in alimony.

Even Tanniehill beaten

Polish wrestlers romp

By BRUCE CLOSWAY
Daily News Sports Writer

Nearly 1,800 spectators, most apparently lured by their own curiosity or a loyalty to their heritage, were on hand in old Memorial Hall at Winona State Monday night to see what happens when wrestlers with as little as two weeks of Greco-Roman training take on the second-rated team in the world.

As expected, the underdog team wasn't able to provide the fans with much to cheer about.

Even former Winona State standout Jim Tanniehill, an Amateur Athletic Union champion, had more than he could handle as the Polish National wrestling team won all 10 matches in a dual meet with a United States team composed of former and current Warrior grapplers and members of the Minnesota Amateur Wrestling Club.

The Poles, ranked second in the world behind the Russians, simply had too much experience in the Greco-Roman style, which does not allow a wrestler to apply any hold below the waist of an opponent or to use his legs for any maneuvers.

Tanniehill, a 1970 graduate now serving with the U.S. Army in Herlong, Calif., has been involved in AAU Greco-Roman competition for the past three years and actually came the closest of any of the American wrestlers to upsetting his opponent, Stanislaw Krzesinski, in a 180.5 pound match.

But the powerful Krzesinski built up leads of 5-3 and 8-3 in the first two periods before being assessed with a pair of penalty points in the final period as Tanniehill clearly took the role of the aggressor.

Another such penalty, for lack of aggressiveness, or what is termed "passiveness" according to international rules, would have disqualified the Polish wrestler.

"Even though I lost, I really enjoy being back in Winona," said Tanniehill, who did his high school wrestling at Alexander Ramsey in Roseville. "Winona will always be a part of me and I plan to do whatever I can to get back here for the alumni meet this fall."

As he finished dressing following the meet, Tanniehill covered his head with a linen cloth and head bands and promptly explained that he has joined the Muslim faith and is currently undergoing the legal procedures to have his name changed.

"I normally pray every day," he stated, "but with all this traveling I've been doing lately (he's been in practically every state West of the Mississippi in the past two weeks as part of an Army public relations team), I'm afraid I'm a few prayers behind."

When asked if he preferred Greco-Roman competition over freestyle wrestling, Tanniehill was quick to reply.

"I love Greco-Roman, but I don't think I'll ever be ready for international competition unless I can train in Europe. I talked with one of the Poles after my match and learned almost as much about what I did wrong as I have in three years of competition."

Ron Oglesby, another former Winona State mat star who, like Tanniehill, was an NAIA runner-up in 1970, was beaten by Jan Michalik in a 125.5-pound match.

Twins', Brewers' troubles continue

Compiled from wire services

Manager Frank Quilici has found little relief about the 3-15 record the Minnesota Twins have compiled in the Grapefruit League this spring—and things aren't going right for the Milwaukee Brewers either.

The Twins, hurt the last two years with an ineffective bullpen, built a 4-0 lead Monday against the Los Angeles Dodgers in Vero Beach as Bert Blyleven allowed just three hits in five innings.

Los Angeles won 5-4 in 10 innings after Tom Burgeimer ad Bill Butler could turn in adequate relief.

"Burgeimer didn't have it but Blyleven did and that's a plus," said Quilici.

But while Blyleven appears to be in stride for the season opener April 4 in Kansas City, there doesn't seem to be consistency in the bullpen. The Twins blew 6-1 and 4-1 leads their previous two games.

They tried to snap their losing streak today in Orlando against Cincinnati.

Steve Braun led Minnesota's 11-hit attack against the Dodgers with three hits.

The Brewers' team bus got stopped for speeding and the delay was long enough to miss batting practice before their game against the San Diego Padres.

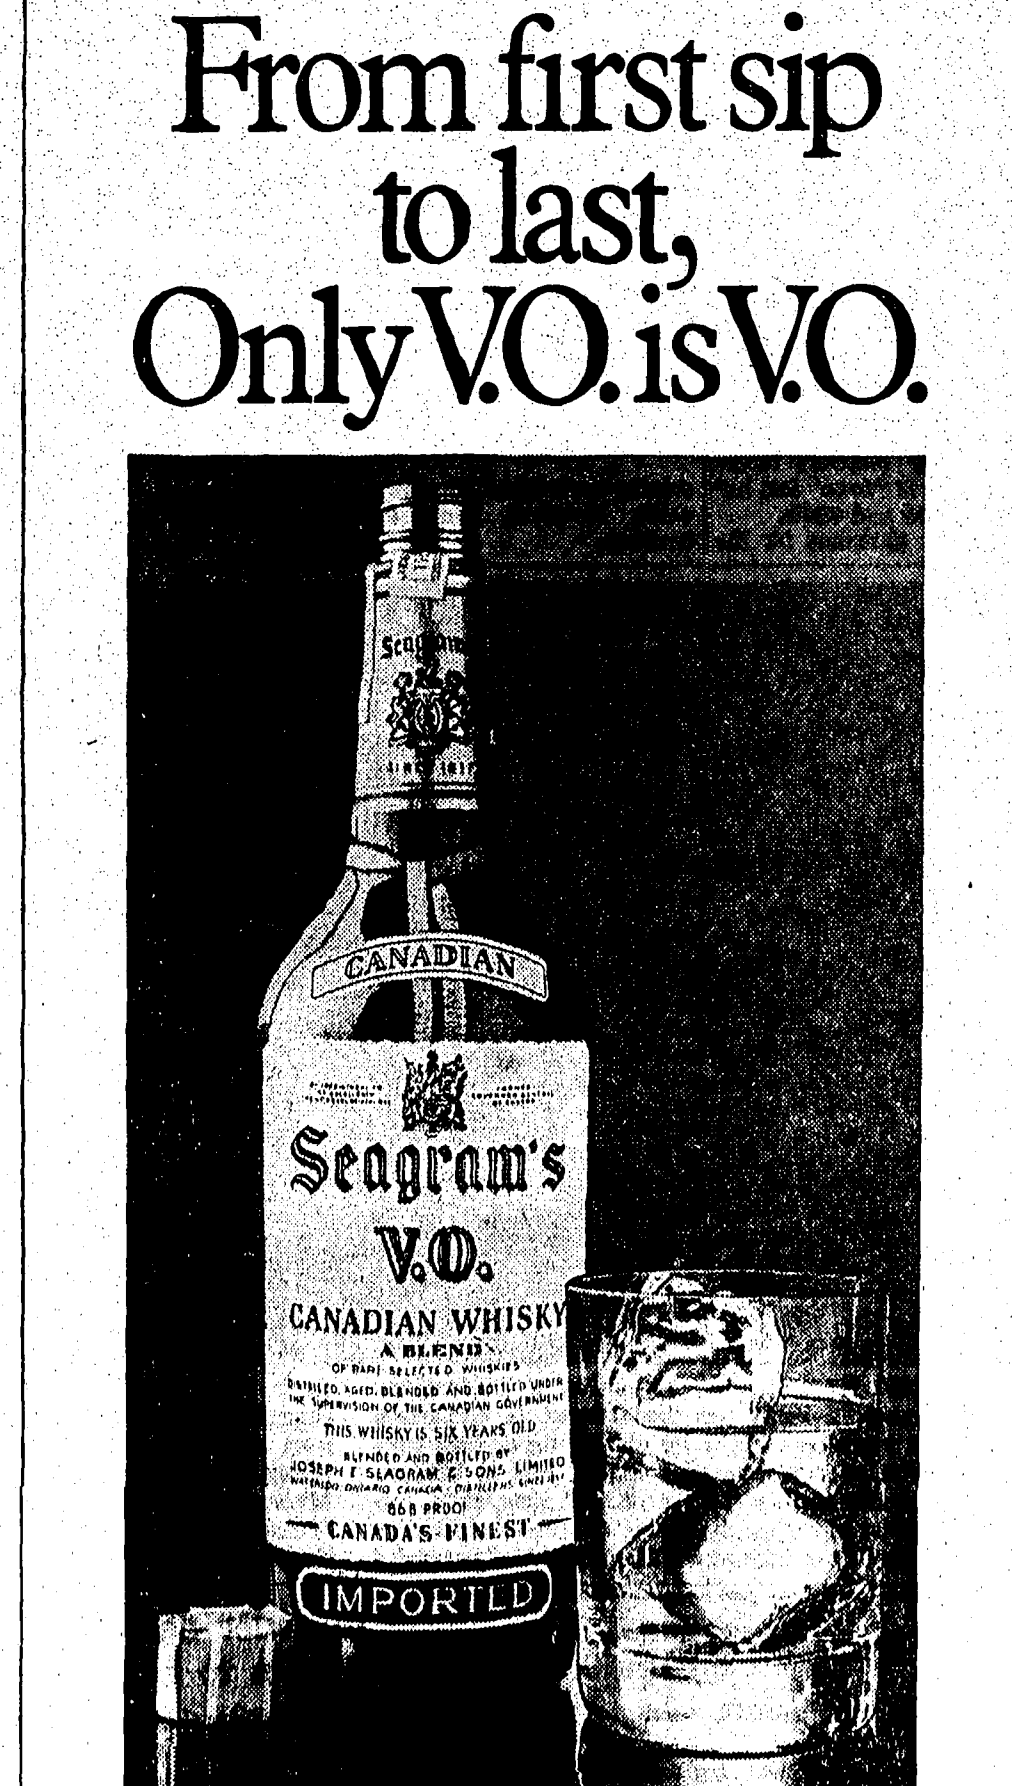

When the game started, it didn't appear as if the practice would be missed. But then the Padres teed off on Brewer ace Jim Colborn and Milwaukee went down to its third loss in a row, 5-4.

Catcher Fred Kendall's three-run homer in the fourth inning was the big blow for San Diego. The Padres scored their final two runs on fifth inning singles by Dave Winfield and Nate Colbert.

Milwaukee scored in the first inning on a double by Bobby Mitchell and a single by George Scott. The Brewers added another run in the seventh on Ken Berry's double, and tallied two times in the ninth on a two-run homer by pinchhitter Felipe Alou.

In other exhibition games, St. Louis stopped Pittsburgh 5-4; Atlanta nipped Texas 4-3 as Hank Aaron socked his second spring training homer; Detroit battered the New York Mets 14-0; Boston slipped by Montreal 5-4;

WSC teacher poses theory on retirement

The argument that there should be no compulsory retirement at any age is posed in an article written by Dr. J. H. Foenen of the Winona State College department of business administration and economics and published in the January issue of Labor Law Journal.

In his article, "Toward a Discriminatory Work Ethic," Dr. Foenen asserts that since the federal Age Discrimination Employment Act makes it illegal to discriminate against "older workers" younger than 65, the act should be amended to prevent compulsory retirement at any age.

Such compulsion, for some workers, also discriminates on the basis of age, Dr. Foenen holds, assuming the person wants to and is able to continue working.

Senior workers, he says, should be given the "dignified option of deciding for themselves when to end their active work lives."

A member of the Winona State faculty since 1953, Dr. Foenen is a member of the Industrial Relations Research Association, the American Society for Personnel Administration and the International Personnel Management Association.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Small Business Administration has delivered a report to Congress that shows serious problems in nearly one-fourth of its offices.

A copy of the report obtained by The Associated Press shows problems ranging from high rates of bad loans to bank bailouts to what is called serious conflicts of interest.

The report was a 94-page section deleted from a city-by-city audit made public last Thursday.

Rep. Lawrence Williams, R-Pa., said Monday that SBA Administrator Thomas Kleppe had misled the news media with that report because the 94 pages were deleted.

Kleppe was unavailable for comment, but a top deputy disputed Williams' claims.

At the time the 59-city audit was made public, Kleppe had declared that "SBA has no more Richmonds" — a reference to scandals at the state office in Virginia, whose director had been fired.

He said the intensive, wide-ranging internal probe has "unearthed no serious problems other than the previously mentioned situation ..."

The 94-page section deleted from the full report contains auditors' comments that SBA offices in 13 cities showed evidence of "immediate serious problems. Only seven of the 59 cities were said to have no problems."

Williams, ranking Republican on the House Banking subcommittee that received the report, said that what Kleppe told the press and what he told the Small Business subcommittee are not the same.

"In fact, the whole SBA handling of the report was designed to withhold the truth from the press," Williams said.

Assistant SBA Administrator

Randall L. Woods said that when the full report was released "we indicated to the press, as well as the committee members, that the section on the mini-reviews was being extracted because it contained unsubstantiated, raw hand-written notations by our reviewers ...

"To release this unsubstantiated material would have done grave and serious harm, we felt, to the small business involved," Woods said. "We are presently going into each and every case thoroughly ... and we will take corrective actions where warranted."

News roundup

Court overturns flag conviction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court overturned Monday the conviction of a Massachusetts man arrested for wearing an American flag on the seat of his pants.

The court ruled 5 to 4 that the state law against mistreatment of the American flag was unconstitutional because it was too vague and too broad.

In his majority opinion, Justice Lewis F. Powell wrote that the law "fails to draw reasonably clear lines between the kinds of nonceremonial treatment that are criminal and those that are not."

He also said that "flag contempt statutes have been characterized as void of lack of notice on the theory that what is contemptuous to one man may be a work of art to another."

The case involved Valerie Gougen, who was convicted in Worcester, County, Mass., for wearing a United States flag sewed to the seat of his pants.

mile from Oudong. An estimated 600 troops from the garrison that was driven out of Oudong and about 1,000 civilians were reported holed up in the pagoda under heavy insurgent pressure. The government task force was reported spreading out on a broad front in preparation of an attempt to push the rebels back and lift the siege of the pagoda.

900 evacuated

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The 900 residents of Bellaghy, in County Londonderry, were evacuated from their village early this morning just before a small explosion in a car parked on the main street. Police had determined the car was stolen, and they thought two milk churns inside it might be packed with explosives. But the bomb was small, and damage was minor. After the explosion, the villagers were allowed to return to their homes.

Narcotics agents' trial under way

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Attorneys defending 10 narcotics agents accused of violating the civil rights of residents in six homes raided last year have offered in evidence a narcotics cache they value at more than $1 million. The defense opened its case Monday after U.S. District Court Judge Omer Poos threw out two counts against each of two defendants but denied defense motions for acquittal of all 10 defendants. The seven federal officers and three St. Louis policemen are accused of illegally raiding six Collinsville area homes without warrants last April. The agents contend the raids capped a seven-month investigation in which they purchased cocaine, amphetamine, heroin, marijuana and hashish, the drugs brought to court Monday.

Cambodia forces advance on town

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian government forces advanced from two sides today on Oudong, the historic town 23 miles north of Phnom Penh captured by Khmer Rouge insurgents on March 18. The government said its forces north of the town, after a week of little progress advanced over a series of insurgent strongholds about one mile from Oudong. Another task force which advanced from east last weekend was consolidating its position near the Tep Pranam pagoda, half a
